TRAVEL CONDITIONS ABROAD ARE EASING; RESTRICTIONS FEWER

Passports Freely Given To Foreigners Except Suspicious Russians

IMMIGRATION LIGHT

Greeks, Bulgarians And Poles Most Eager To Get Into U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—War time restrictions against travel in Europe are virtually ended. Anyone in America who has the necessary money, and is not known in his community as a dangerous character, can now visit every part of the Continent, except perhaps certain parts of Russia and the border states. If an American citizen or an alien, there is no likelyhood that he will be stopped in going or returning, provided his absence from this country is not greater than six months.

In the visa office of the state Department they assure you that it is still their duty to keep "dangerous bolsheviks" out of the country by refusal to vise the passports of all such but the actual situation appears to be that the international sport of red-hunting has become a bore, and the department is swinging back to the old policy of letting aliens in with the exception of making good Republicans or Democrats of them in due course. Hence any coal miner in Iowa who wishes to go home for a visit to Germany or Jugoslavia or Italy, without having secured his final citizenship papers here, may rest easy in his mind.

For the information of persons intending to send money to relatives abroad to aid them in reaching this country, the Bureau of Immigration is issuing a monthly summary of the immigration figures for each country that is furnishing the United States with immigrants. The total number of immigrants within the limited class who may be admitted between now and the end of the fiscal year—June 30th—together with the number from each country thus far admitted, is shown in this monthly report. Anyone may learn the recent trend of immigration from each country, and guess on the probable speed with which the admissable quota of immigration will be filed.

Thus, Germany has sent only 11,295 out of a possible 68,039 who can enter before July, while Bulgaria, up to January 31 had sent all but 14 of her possible 301 of common immigrants. Czechoslvakia had sent but 797 out of her possible 14,269, while Poland had exceeded her quota of 25,800; Greece had exceeded her quota of 3,286, and Jugoslavia had exceeded by 197 her quota of 6,405.

If an alian remains abroad on a visit over six months, he must come in as a new immigrant, and if the quota from his country is full he must wait until the next fiscal year begins. Persons delayed abroad by reason of attendance on the last illness of a parent have in certain instances been re-admitted despite this time limit.

Russia, of course, is not included in the foreign assurance of normal conditions in travel. The state Department issues no passports to Russia, and Russians who wish to come to the United States or wish to leave the United States to travel in other countries are having very serious difficulties. Esthonia, Lithuania, Lativa, the Caucasian republics and the Far Eastern Republic are treated by the department as part of Russia; they are not recognized, and travel to and from those countries is not encouraged.

DAVID GARBER DIES AT ADAMS TP. HOME AFTER LONG ILLNESS

David Garber, aged 64, died at his home in Adams-tp, Friday night at 8 o'clock, after several years' illness from a complication of diseases.

He was born, September, 1857 in Adams-tp. He spent all his life in Adams-tp on the farm where he died.

Mr. Garber was a member of the Bakersville M. E. church for a number of years.

He was married to Katherine Kobel. She survives.

Besides the widow, he is survived by eight children. They are Charles E. Garber, Hattie Pearl Garber, Christian Floyd Garber, Edward Ross Garber, Harry David Garber, Laura Victoria Garber, all of the late home and Leroy Fred Garber, of Chill and Mrs. Charles E. Deible, of Fresno. There are also 5 grandchildren and the following 2 sisters surviving: Mrs. Mary Laubscher and Mrs. Lydia Smith, both of Bakersville.

The funeral services will be held at the late home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Mr. Keane, of Fresno in charge. Burial will be made at the Bakersville cemetery.

HOWAT COMES WITHIN 93 VOTES OF EQUALING PRESIDENT LEWIS' STRENGTH IN MINERS' MEETING

Mother Jones Warns Convention Of U. M. W. of A. At Indianapolis That Enemy Is Boring From Within, And Urges Peace—End Of Lewis Dictatorship Is Predicted By Howat

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 18.—Mother Jones interrupted a tumultous demonstration by supporters of Alexander Howat against John L. Lewis and other of the leaders of the U. M. W. of A. in the convention today.

Appearing at a moment when charges of padding the list were being hurled across the hall as the absentee vote was being called in the test of strength between Lewis and Howat, the woman who for more than half a century has been a guiding light in the labor movement, told the miners to quit fighting among themselves. The enemy is boring from within, she said, and you are putting into the hands of the enemy the weapons with which to fight you.

The narrow margin of 93 votes by which John L. Lewis has been unofficially proclaimed victor over Alexander Howat in a test of administration and insurgent strength on the floor of the miners' convention may be increased today when an opportunity is given delegates to cast the 150 votes recorded as absent, at today's session.

The Lewis forces marshalled their complete strength for a roundup of the 150 votes, realizing that a substantial number was needed to make their victory of yesterday complete. Get 100 was the slogan of the Lewis gang as they started early and kept in motion until late, a drive that has all appearances of success.

The Howat crowd was not inactive. There was just the bare posibility of turning a narrow defeat into victory, and with the prize big, and the opportunities unlimited, they confined their final efforts on an almost complete roundup of the absent voters.

Lewis regards the fight as over; Howat takes a similar view.

Lewis sees in it a vindication for the administration; Howat sees in it the beginning of the end of the Lewis dictatorship.

ANOTHER DIVORCE IN FILM COLONY

Billie Rhodes.

Another matrimonial wreck has come to light in the Los Angeles film colony. Billie Rhodes, widow of the late Smiling Bill Parsons, has filed suit for divorce from her second husband, William H. Jobelman, to whom she was married in 1920. Cruelty and the claim that he offered to give her grounds for divorce for $10,000 are among the charges. Mr. Jobelman was formerly the comedienne's publicity man. He denied the charges.

EX-OFFICIAL SAYS FRANCE WILL NEVER PAY BACK AMERICA

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18.—Mr. Frank R. Kent, foreign representative of the Baltimore Sun in a lengthy cable under Paris date, published in the Sun today, states that in an interview he had with Louis Loucheur, former French minister for devastated region, Loucheur declared France cannot pay her debt, that the U. S. refuses to buy her goods or to accept her currency, M. Loucheur asserts.

Mr. Kent's cablegram, in part says:

In a vigorous talk I had with him today, at his home, 9 Rue Hemelih, Louis Loucheur former minister of devastated regions in the Briand cabinet and now a member of the chamber of deputies flatly and definitely declared that France not only cannot now or in the near future pay her debt to America, but can never pay it. Further, reduction of her army will not alter in the least her inability to pay.

M. Loucheur said he had much faith in the proposal Genoa conference. He also stated that France was convinced that Germany was able to pay her indemnity and demands that Germany lay her financial cards on the table. He continued.

You ask us to pay our war debts. We cannot pay. We cannot now, and we cannot ever pay. No clear-headed man, with a real knowledge of financial facts, has the remotest idea that we can ever pay.

The only possibly way in which we can ever pay is in our goods and you will not take our goods. We cannot pay in currency. You won't take that. You demand gold and you have all the gold in the world in your own vaults. And now you prepare to erect a tariff wall around your country that will still more completely bar out our goods. How utterly illogical and inconsistent is the American attitude?

The argument that if France reduced her army, she could save enough money to pay her debts is neither sound nor sensible. I am not a militarist. I am a firm believer in the reduction of the French army. That reduction will take place. Already in part the first steps have been taken in this direction, but I think if Senator McCormick and others who think with him were Frenchmen they would change their opinion.

IS UNIMPROVED

The condition of Mrs. Howard E. Truitt, who has been seriously ill at her home, 322 north Tenth-st, for several weeks, remains unimproved.

AMERICAN CHURCH TO STRESS EIGHT POINTS IN CREED ANNOUNCED

SEATTLE, Feb. 18—A new non-denominational church, to be known as The American Church, is being formed here with Dr. Sydney Strong, father of Anna [illegible] Strong, as pastor. Among the eight points of its "creed" are the cooperative commonwealth, the practice of radical equality, the full exercise of civil liberty, the immediate abolition of war and the method of non-violence, with love of enemies.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM SOLDIER VOTE IN ASHBROOK BATTLE

Local Democrat Leader Says Veterans Will Line Up Solidly For Ashbrook

ACCUSE REPUBLICANS

Of Attempt To Steal "Ashbrook's Thunder" Thru Play For Soldier Vote

That the soldier vote of Coshocton-co will be thrown almost solidly to William A. Ashbrook in the coming congressional fight, is the claim of local Democrats.

In advancing their claim, they pass over the possibility that the primaries will result in anything else than the nomination of Ashbrook as the Democratic candidate for representative from the 17th District.

The prediction that the soldier vote of the county will be thrown to Ashbrook is made on the grounds of Ashbrook's remarkable work in the interest of soldiers during his 14 years in congress, Democrats say.

It was pointed out by one local leader that Ashbrook "had more special bills passed in the interest of soldiers than any man in congress."

Continuing he said, "I am satisfied that the ex-service men of Coshocton-co will line up almost to a man behind Ashbrook in the show-down in November. Ashbrook is known not only in this county but thruout the district as a friend of the soldier. He is the author of the widow's pension bill and has always been deeply interested in relief work for the soldiers."

Charges that the Republicans are attempting "to steal Ashbrook's thunder" in favor of Congressman Morgan are being made by the Democrats.

They discount the efforts made by Morgan in the matter of soldier relief, alleging that it "was forced thru the enviable record of Ashbrook."

Democrats anticipate efforts upon the part of the Republicans to win over the soldier vote early in the campaign, and, locally, are preparing to place the record of Ashbrook well to the front.

Pension increases secured thru Morgan, Democrats believe, will "be played for all and more than they're worth" in a grand attempt to break down the support enjoyed by Ashbrook in this county. The Republican onslaught, they maintain, will only react in favor of the Democratic candidate. Morgan's record in soldier relief work, they allege, will not stand a comparison with that of Ashbrook and when brot to the front, as Democrats expect, will only substantiate the claim that a move is on foot in the Republican camp "to steal Ashbrook's thunder."

Democrats are openly charging the Republicans with making soldier bonus legislation, now before congress, the political football.

Its passage at the present time is being held up, they maintain, only for campaign purposes.

Regardless of whether it is passed or "killed in committee," it was pointout that Ashbrook is already on record in favor of the bonus, having voted in favor of it during his term previous to the Republican landslide.

MRS. A. D. FREESE IS DEAD AT NEW HOME IN UPLAND, INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Graham, of Locust-st, recived word Saturday of the death of their niece, Mrs. A. D Freese, aged 40, who died at her home in Upland, Ind., Saturday. The cause of her death was not given in the message received.

Mrs. Graham received word from the Freeses a few days ago and it mentioned that all were well in the family except Mrs. Freese, who was suffering from a sore hand. The relatives here were under the impression that probably blood-poisoning had set in, causing her death.

Her maiden name was Miss Gladys Underwood. She was born in Bedford-tp, Coshocton-co. She had resided near Mohawk until last September, when with her husband and children she moved to Upland.

She is survived by a number of friends and relatives in Coshocton-co.

The children living are Virgil, Frances, Hugh and Dorothy. They range in ages from 12 to 16 years.

Mrs. Freese is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Underwood, of Cooperdale.

It is likely that the body will be brot to Coshocton and buried near Mohawk.

LEAVITT IS FINED $200 BY THE MAYOR

A fine of $200 was asessed against Chester Leavitt Saturday morning by Mayor W. S. Tish, on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor.

Leavitt made arrangements for the payment of the fine and was released from custody.

Leavitt, who is a taxi driver, was arrested Wednesday evening when it was reported to the police that he had been dispensing liquor from his taxi. When police went to arrest him, he broke a bottle of liquid which he was carrying, by dashing it on the pavement near his taxi stand on Main-st.

Fifty-one members were present at the meeting Wednesday vening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Touvell.

"RIVALS RUINED ME," SAYS "PONZI," AS FLEECED VICTIMS SEEK HELP

Charles H. Apple, called one of Bischoff's rivals, and a few of the hundreds who lost their savings in Bischoff's get-rich-quick scheme filing claims.

While Raymond J. Bischoff, Chicago's "boy Ponzi," is blaming Charles H. Apple and another "rival" for stealing his ideas for getting rich quick and thereby ruining his business and causing his embarrassment, the hundreds of victims of the Wallingford scheme are seeking aid of the authorities to collect at least a part of the savings they gave Bischoff. Bischoff claims that Apple, security dealer, and a man named Harrington, so reduced his income that his "business" collapsed. He admits that he owes approximately $4,500,000 and has but $1,000.

HOT LUNCH FOR RURAL SCHOOL KIDS IS BIG SUCCESS SAYS TEACHER WHO TRIED AND ADOPTED IT AT PINE GROVE SCHOOL

Warm lunch, cooked in the schoolroom, is no longer an experiment at Pine Grove school, Franklin-tp.

Miss Viola Hiser inaugurated the innovation for the benefit of her 17 pupils several weeks ago, and upon the visit of County Superintendent L. C. Shaw at her school she pronounced it a success from every angle.

Here's the method Miss Hiser uses, with the assistance of the mothers of the pupils.

Each child brings potatoes, milk, eggs, meat broth, bread, butter, or other foods designed according to the schedule, in lieu of the regular cold lunch.

Supplies of Cocoa, crackers, sugar and condiments are purchased at a cost of one half cent per pupil per day.

An oil stove and cooking utelsils were provided at a cost of $4

At the morning recess the teacher starts the meal, with the help of the girl pupils, who are given practical lessons in cooking.

At noon the meal, consisting of some or all of the following dishes, is served: eggs, cocoa, potatoes and gravy, noodles, soup and crackers, toast with white sauce.

Small boys who are frequently under nourished because of a tendency to snatch only a bite of cold lunch and run out to play, gladly sit down and enjoy a warm dinner, the teacher says.

That it is inductive to health is evidenced in the 100 per cent attendance record the school chalked up in January, not a pupil being absent or tardy during the month.

This, Superintenden Shaw asserts, is a remarkable record for a small rural school where some of the pupils walk more than a mile to and from the schoolhouse.

After the lunch the dishes and utensils are carefully washed and arranged in the improvised cupboard by the teacher and the girls.

"Everything was as neat as a pin when I arrived at the school just after the noonday meal," said Mr. Shaw. "I only regret that I was too late to share the good things," he added.

Miss Hiser is serving her first year as teacher at Pine Grove. That she is successful may be readily learned by contact wit hany of the pupils or parents within her jurisdiction. It is her fourth year as a public school teacher.

"The pupils of Pine Grove school are fortunate," said Mr Shaw Friday, and by way of emphasizing his point he told of a little tot in anoher school in the county wao carried a lunch box for nearly three weeks, absolutely empty. The other pupils finally learned that the child had no noonday lunch because there was nothing at home to send, and divided with him.

"The teacher and myself admired the little fellow for at least keeping up appearances, but it touched us deeply. Today he is provided for," the superintendent added.

MUSCLE SHOALS TO BE SECOND NIAGARA FOR POWER PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—A great water power development at Muscle Shoals, Ala., second only to Niagra Falls was pictured to the house military affairs committee today by J. W. Worthington, testifying in favor of Henry Ford's offer to lease the shoals property from the government. There is more than one million potential horse power which Ford will extract from the upper Tenesace river, if congress looks with favor on his bid, Worthington declared.

Representative Quinn of Massachusetts, said the Ford offer gave more to the government than congress itself gave.

He pointed out the action of the house on February 7, 1921 in refusing by a large majority to complete dam Number 2 at the shoals. I say it with bowed head and sad heart, and heard congress say by action, that that part of the Muscle Shoals project was worthless. And now Ford is willing to go ahead and develop this property I am frankly of the belief that if congress turns down this Ford offer it will be the crime of the twentieth century.

MRS. ADAM SHUMAKER WILL BE BURIED AT RENNER CHURCH MON.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Renner church for Mrs. Adam Schumaker, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Phillip Miller, near Pearl, Friday. Burial will be made in the Renner church cemetery.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two children, Mrs. Miller, and Jacob Schumaker, of West Lafayette. Two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Born, of Marietta, O., Mrs. Frank Norman, of New Philadelphia and one brother, Daniel Lembright, of near Ragersville. There are also 21 grandchildren and 42 great-grandchildren living. The Rev. Mr. Brown will have charge of the funeral.

She had been a member of the Evangelical church since the age of 16 years.

REST IN SANITARIUM PROVES BENEFICIAL

According to word received by friends and relatives in this city, Saturday, John Shaw, 423 Main-st, who is at present confined to the McMillen sanitarium at Shepard, O., near Columbus, was reported slightly improved.

Mr. Shaw was confined to the sanitarium last Sunday owning to a sudden nervous breakdonwn he suffered. Mr. Shaw believed he needed a rest and decided to recuperate in the sanitarium at Shepard. He asked Henry Richardson to accompany him to Shephard. He took Mr. Shaw there last Sunday.

Mr. Shaw's new home on Chestnut-st, near the county jail is almost completed. Mr. Richardson has the contract for building Mr. Shw's new home.

U. S. PAYS FOR LAND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Expenditure of $4,140,000 in payment of all claims against the government for land taken by the army during the war, is provided in a bill passed by the senate to amend the army appropriation act of 1919. The amendment sponsored by Senator Wadsworth, Republican of New York, chairman of the senate military afafirs committee was passed without a record vote.

BONOMI RESIGNS AGAIN

ROME, Feb. 18.—The resignation of Premier Bonomi and his cabinet are in the hands of King Victor Emmanuel today, for the second time in less than three weeks as a result of the defeat inflicted upon the government in the chamber of deputies Friday.

The Bonomi ministry failed to get a vote of confidence.

The vote in the chamber indicated that a majority of the deputies favor the Genoa conference.

BANKER-RAILROADER ASKS DISPENSATION CONTRAVENING RULE

Railway Labor Board Is Requested To Endorse Low Wage Scale

FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE

To Yield Would Mean A Precedent, Contention Of Labor Men

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Has the United States Railway Labor Board the power to sanction a wage scale for railway employes lower than the rate it has decreed as just and reasonable because a particular road claims it cannot operate if it must pay the prevailing wages? Festus J. Wade, the St. Louis banker who "represents every dollar of bonds and every share of stock" of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, appeared before the board Wednesday and asked it to take this action "in the name of humanity."

Representatives of the railway labor organizations asked the board to dismiss the petition on the ground that the road had made no attempt to negotiate a wage scale with the unions as the transportation act provides; that the road is not now a common carrier inasmuch as it has not operated since July, 1921, and that the road is for sale making it unnecessary for the board to take action until the people who purchase it express a desire for a settlement of a wage dispute.

Wade vigorously denied intimations by labor representatives that this appeal is a scheme to get the board to weaken its standards by cutting wages on this particular short line and thereby setting a precedent for similar cuts on other short lines in the same region and eventually for roads all over the country.

E. C. Curtis, vice president of the Railway Conductors, who handled the case for the labor organizations, developed by cross examination that while the road operated under a receiver it paid 25 per cent less than the wages fixed by the court in charge of the receivership that the court's standard was lower taht the scale fixed by the United States Railway Labor Board.

According to Wade the road has operated at a loss since 1912 and has paid no returns on the investment of $8,000,000 which it represents. It has no cash and no credit, he declared, and it ran a deficit of $600,000 in the last year of operations. Its receipts during that period were less than $2,000,000. Wade and the receiver, J. C. Murray, returned again and again to the humanitarian objects they had in mind in asking a wage cut; 145,000 people in Arkansas are served exclusively by the road, they declared, and if the service is abandoned property worth $59,000,000 will become worthless. Farmers are not planting crops until they hear the board's decision and should the road not function the school children of the state will suffer because the road pays taxes when it runs.

"No man or set of men has a right to interfere with the life of a little child," Murray asserted in a quavering voice.

Curtis punctured the humanitarian pleas of the receiver by the observation that the road was asking the board to fix a certain wage so that the M. & N. A. could operate without regard for the welfare of its employes. His answer to Wade's wage cutting proposal with the provision that if the road made money it would pay the workers the difference between their wages and the Labor Board's scale was that the road asked its employes to share its adversity but made no offer to share any potential prosperity.

Wade announced his approval of labor unions, declaring that he demanded union labor in all his enterprises and that he would not try to operate the road with non-union labor.

The Missouri and North Arkansas is the railroad whose receiver a year ago organized an association for the deportation of trade union officials and resident strikers, according to testimony before President Harding by Martin C. Carey, vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors, L. M. Eddy, vice president of Order of Railway Telegraphers, and W. E. Horn of the Railway Employes Department, A. F. of L. On April 6, 1921, representatives of the sixteen asociated railroad labor organizations were driven from Harison, Ark., by an armed drink-inflamed crowd which had been asembled by a special train run at the cost of the road itself. The union chiefs appealed to Harding and to Senator Cummins to restore legal rights as the road threatened to deport the strikers through many of them owned their own homes and most of them were natives of Arkansas.

MINESOTA LABOR AND FARMERS TO MEET NEXT MONTH

MINNEAPOLIS Feb 17—How the organized farmers and organized city workers of Minnesota will operate politically this year will be decided at state conventions to be held next month, probably March 17

This announcement was made by A. C. Townley, president of the Nonpartisan league, following a conference of leaders of the progressive forces held here

Townley issued a statement, making it clear that whatever plan is decided upon, the progressive forces will unite upon it, and there will be no chance of division.

The conference recommends to the state committees of the Nonpartisan league and Working People's Political league that calls be issued for state conventions and to invite other organizations which might wish to join in political action to take similar steps. At these conventions final decisions are to be reached in regard to political plans

Three courses of action have been suggested.

1. To attempt Townley's balance of power plan, throwing the organization support to one candidate or another just before election, according to his attitude on the liberal program

2. To have candidates entered in the Democrat or Republican primary races for all offices.

3. To get behind the Farmer Labor party and make of it a permanent political organization, running candidates for all offices this year upon this ticket, from United States senator down.

GOVEJNMENT CONTROL OF RAILROADS TOPIC OF SERIOUS DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Denunciations of government control or ownership of railroads, demands for repeal of "full crew" laws in the several states, and approval of wage-cutting as a remedy for the existing freight rates were features of debate in the national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here. The council session was devoted to the report of its railroad committee, which proposed that legislation be enacted, providing for a commissioner general of transportation, who should present "the interest of the public" before the interstate commerce commission and the railroad labor board.

This report met with immediate and powerful opposition. Alba B Johnson of Philadelphia, president of the Railway Business association, voiced the fears of what appeared to be a majority of the delegates when he declared that any attempt to have the independence of the interstate commerce commission impaired by the intervention of a spokesman of the president would be "mischievious"

"It is futile and feeble for us to hide from ourselves the seriousness of the juncture at which we stand," said Johnson. "If we fail in the present experiment with regulation, the outcome will be government ownership. I do not know of any competent observer who doubts it If we cannot regulate railroads we cannot regulate banking or business or agriculture or labor. If the government cannot regulate, it must own and operate all these activities The background of this railway problem is our whole political and economic life. The railroads are the first trench We must hold it

"Whether we hold that trench or not will depend upon our railway policy and its administration Adequacy of income as a statutory aim of legislation is fighting for its existence against the forces of repeal The chamber stands solidly against such repeal"

Senator Cummins, as the father of the Esch-Cummins transportation act was given an ovation when he pleaded for a fair trial of his measure without the experiment of such further pressure upon the interstate commerce commission as the committee's report proposed

VOL. XIII, NO. 168. — SATURDAY EVENING, FEB. 18, 1922. — THREE CENTS

TRAVEL CONDITIONS ABROAD ARE EASING; RESTRICTIONS FEWER

Passports Freely Given To Foreigners Except Suspicious Russians

IMMIGRATION LIGHT

Greeks, Bulgarians And Poles Most Eager To Get Into U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—War time restrictions against travel in Europe are virtually ended. Anyone in America who has the necessary money, and is not known in his community as a dangerous character, can now visit every part of the Continent, except perhaps certain parts of Russia and the border states. If an American citizen or an alien, there is no likelyhood that he will be stopped in going or returning, provided his absence from this country is not greater than six months.

In the visa office of the state Department they assure you that it is still their duty to keep "dangerous bolsheviks" out of the country by refusal to vise the passports of all such but the actual situation appears to be that the international sport of red-hunting has become a bore, and the department is swinging back to the old policy of letting aliens in with the exception of making good Republicans or Democrats of them in due course. Hence any coal miner in Iowa who wishes to go home for a visit to Germany or Jugoslavia or Italy, without having secured his final citizenship papers here, may rest easy in his mind.

For the information of persons intending to send money to relatives abroad to aid them in reaching this country, the Bureau of Immigration is issuing a monthly summary of the immigration figures for each country that is furnishing the United States with immigrants. The total number of immigrants within the limited class who may be admitted between now and the end of the fiscal year—June 30th—together with the number from each country thus far admitted, is shown in this monthly report. Anyone may learn the recent trend of immigration from each country, and guess on the probable speed with which the admissable quota of immigration will be filed.

Thus, Germany has sent only 11,295 out of a possible 68,039 who can enter before July, while Bulgaria, up to January 31 had sent all but 14 of her possible 301 of common immigrants. Czechoslvakia had sent but 797 out of her possible 14,269, while Poland had exceeded her quota of 25,800; Greece had exceeded her quota of 3,286, and Jugoslavia had exceeded by 197 her quota of 6,495.

If an alian remains abroad on a visit over six months, he must come in as a new immigrant, and if the quota from his country is full he must wait until the next fiscal year begins. Persons delayed abroad by reason of attendance on the last illness of a parent have in certain instances been re-admitted despite this time limit.

Russia, of course, is not included in the foreign assurance of normal conditions in travel. The state Department issues no passports to Russia, and Russians who wish to come to the United States or wish to leave the United States to travel in other countries are having very serious difficulties. Esthonia, Lithuania, Lativa, the Caucasian republics and the Far Eastern Republic are treated by the department as part of Russia; they are not recognized, and travel to and from those countries is not encouraged.

DAVID GARBER DIES AT ADAMS TP. HOME AFTER LONG ILLNESS

David Garber, aged 64, died at his home in Adams-tp, Friday night at 8 o'clock, after several years' illness from a complication of diseases.

He was born, September, 1857 in Adams-tp. He spent all his life in Adams-tp on the farm where he died.

Mr. Garber was a member of the Bakersville M. E. church for a number of years.

He was married to Katherine Kobel. She survives.

Besides the widow, he is survived by eight children. They are Charles E. Garber, Hattie Pearl Garber, Christian Floyd Garber, Edward Ross Garber, Harry David Garber, Laura Victoria Garber, all of the late home and Leroy Fred Garber, of Chili and Mrs. Charles E. Deible, of Fresno. There are also 5 grandchildren and the following 2 sisters surviving: Mrs. Mary Laubscher and Mrs. Lydia Smith, both of Bakersville.

The funeral services will be held at the late home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Mr. Keane, of Fresno in charge. Burial will be made at the Bakersville cemetery.

HOWAT COMES WITHIN 93 VOTES OF EQUALING PRESIDENT LEWIS' STRENGTH IN MINERS' MEETING

Mother Jones Warns Convention Of U. M. W. of A. At Indianapolis That Enemy Is Boring From Within, And Urges Peace—End Of Lewis Dictatorship Is Predicted By Howat

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 18.—Mother Jones interrupted a tumultous demonstration by supporters of Alexander Howat against John L. Lewis and other of the leaders of the U. M. W. of A. in the convention today.

Appearing at a moment when charges of padding the list were being hurled across the hall as the absentee vote was being called in the test of strength between Lewis and Howat, the woman who for more than half a century has been a guiding light in the labor movement, told the miners to quit fighting among themselves. The enemy is boring from within, she said, and you are putting into the hands of the enemy the weapons with which to fight you.

The narrow margin of 93 votes by which John L. Lewis has been unofficially proclaimed victor over Alexander Howat in a test of administration and insurgent strength on the floor of the miners' convention may be increased today when an opportunity is given delegates to cast the 150 votes recorded as absent, at today's session.

The Lewis forces marshalled their complete strength for a roundup of the 150 votes, realizing that a substantial number was needed to make their victory of yesterday complete. Get 100 was the slogan of the Lewis gang as they started early and kept in motion until late, a drive that has all appearances of success.

The Howat crowd was not inactive. There was just the bare posibility of turning a narrow defeat into victory, and with the prize big, and the opportunities unlimited, they confined their final efforts on an almost complete roundup of the absent voters.

Lewis regards the fight as over; Howat takes a similar view.

Lewis sees in it a vindication for the administration; Howat sees in it the beginning of the end of the Lewis dictatorship.

ANOTHER DIVORCE IN FILM COLONY

Billie Rhodes.

Another matrimonial wreck has come to light in the Los Angeles film colony. Billie Rhodes, widow of the late Smiling Bill Parsons, has filed suit for divorce from her second husband, William H. Jobelman, to whom she was married in 1920. Cruelty and the claim that he offered to give her grounds for divorce for $10,000 are among the charges. Mr. Jobelman was formerly the comedienne's publicity man. He denied the charges.

EX-OFFICIAL SAYS FRANCE WILL NEVER PAY BACK AMERICA

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18.—Mr. Frank R. Kent, foreign representative of the Baltimore Sun in a lengthy cable under Paris date, published in the Sun today, states that in an interview he had with Louis Loucheur, former French minister for devastated region, Loucheur declared France cannot pay her debt, that the U. S. refuses to buy her goods or to accept her currency, M. Loucheur asserts.

Mr. Kent's cablegram, in part says:

In a vigorous talk I had with him today, at his home, 9 Rue Hemelih, Louis Loucheur former minister of devastated regions in the Briand cabinet and now a member of the chamber of deputies flatly and definitely declared that France not only cannot now or in the near future pay her debt to America, but can never pay it. Further, reduction of her army will not alter in the least her inability to pay.

M. Loucheur said he had much faith in the proposal Genoa conference. He also stated that France was convinced that Germany was able to pay her indemnity and demands that Germany lay her financial cards on the table. He continued.

You ask us to pay our war debts. We cannot pay. We cannot now, and we cannot ever pay. No clear-headed man, with a real knowledge of financial facts, has the remotest idea that we can ever pay.

The only possibly way in which we can ever pay is in our goods and you will not take our goods. We cannot pay in currency. You won't take that. You demand gold and you have all the gold in the world in your own vaults. And now you prepare to erect a tariff wall around your country that will still more completely bar out our goods. How utterly illogical and inconsistent is the American attitude?

The argument that if France reduced her army, she could save enough money to pay her debts is neither sound nor sensible. I am not a militarist. I am a firm believer in the reduction of the French army. That reduction will take place. Already in part the first steps have been taken in this direction, but I think if Senator McCormick and others who think with him were Frenchmen they would change their opinion.

IS UNIMPROVED

The condition of Mrs. Howard E. Truitt, who has been seriously ill at her home, 322 north Tenth-st, for several weeks, remains unimproved.

AMERICAN CHURCH TO STRESS EIGHT POINTS IN CREED ANNOUNCED

SEATTLE, Feb. 18—A new non-denominational church, to be known as The American Church, is being formed here with Dr. Sydney Strong, father of Anna Louise Strong, as pastor. Among the eight points of its "creed" are the cooperative commonwealth, the practice of radical equality, the full exercise of civil liberty, the immediate abolition of war and the method of non-violence, with love of enemies.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM SOLDIER VOTE IN ASHBROOK BATTLE

Local Democrat Leader Says Veterans Will Line Up Solidly For Ashbrook

ACCUSE REPUBLICANS

Of Attempt To Steal "Ashbrook's Thunder" Thru Play For Soldier Vote

That the soldier vote of Coshocton-co will be thrown almost solidly to William A. Ashbrook in the coming congressional fight, is the claim of local Democrats.

In advancing their claim, they pass over the possibility that the primaries will result in anything else than the nomination of Ashbrook as the Democratic candidate for representative from the 17th District.

The prediction that the soldier vote of the county will be thrown to Ashbrook is made on the grounds of Ashbrook's remarkable work in the interest of soldiers during his 14 years in congress, Democrats say.

It was pointed out by one local leader that Ashbrook "had more special bills passed in the interest of soldiers than any man in congress."

Continuing he said, "I am satisfied that the ex-service men of Coshocton-co will line up almost to a man behind Ashbrook in the show-down in November. Ashbrook is known not only in this county but thruout the district as a friend of the soldier. He is the author of the widow's pension bill and has always been deeply interested in relief work for the soldiers."

Charges that the Republicans are attempting "to steal Ashbrook's thunder" in favor of Congressman Morgan are being made by the Democrats.

They discount the efforts made by Morgan in the matter of soldier relief, alleging that it "was forced thru the enviable record of Ashbrook."

Democrats anticipate efforts upon the part of the Republicans to win over the soldier vote early in the campaign, and, locally, are preparing to place the record of Ashbrook well to the front.

Pension increases secured thru Morgan, Democrats believe, will "be played for all and more than they're worth" in a grand attempt to break down the support enjoyed by Ashbrook in this county. The Republican onslaught, they maintain, will only react in favor of the Democratic candidate. Morgan's record in soldier relief work, they allege, will not stand a comparison with that of Ashbrook and when brot to the front, as Democrats expect, will only substantiate the claim that a move is on foot in the Republican camp "to steal Ashbrook's thunder."

Democrats are openly charging the Republicans with making soldier bonus legislation, now before congress, the political football

Its passage at the present time is being held up, they maintain, only for campaign purposes.

Regardless of whether it is passed or "killed in committee," it was pointed out that Ashbrook is already on record in favor of the bonus, having voted in favor of it during his term previous to the Republican landslide.

MRS. A. D. FREESE IS DEAD AT NEW HOME IN UPLAND, INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Graham, of Locust-st. recived word Saturday of the death of their niece, Mrs. A. D Freese, aged 40, who died at her home in Upland, Ind., Saturday. The cause of her death was not given in the message received.

Mrs. Graham received word from the Freeses a few days ago and it mentioned that all were well in the family except Mrs. Freese, who was suffering from a sore hand. The relatives here were under the impression that probably blood-poisoning had set in, causing her death.

Her maiden name was Miss Gladys Underwood. She was born in Bedford-tp, Coshocton-co. She had resided near Mohawk until last September, when with her husband and children she moved to Upland.

She is survived by a number of friends and relatives in Coshocton-co.

The children living are Virgil, Frances, Hugh and Dorothy. They range in ages from 12 to 16 years.

Mrs. Freese is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Underwood, of Cooperdale.

It is likely that the body will be brot to Coshocton and buried near Mohawk.

LEAVITT IS FINED $200 BY THE MAYOR

A fine of $200 was asessed against Chester Leavitt Saturday morning by Mayor W. S. Tish, on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor.

Leavitt made arrangements for the payment of the fine and was released from custody.

Leavitt, who is a taxi driver, was arrested Wednesday evening when it was reported to the police that he had been dispensing liquor from his taxi. When police went to arrest him, he broke a bottle of liquid which he was carrying, by dashing it on the pavement near his taxi stand on Main-st.

PRAYER MEETING

The mid-week prayer service for the congregation of the Franklin M. P. church will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Modest DePorter, Tuesday evening.

Fifty-one members were present at the meeting Wednesday vening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Touvell.

"RIVALS RUINED ME," SAYS "PONZI," AS FLEECED VICTIMS SEEK HELP

Charles H. Apple, called one of Bischoff's rivals, and a few of the hundreds who lost their savings in Bischoff's get - rich - quick scheme filing claims.

While Raymond J. Bischoff, Chicago's "boy Ponzi," is blaming Charles H. Apple and another "rival" for stealing his ideas for getting rich quick and thereby ruining his business and causing his embarrassment, the hundreds of victims of the Wallingford scheme are seeking aid of the authorities to collect at least a part of the savings they gave Bischoff. Bischoff claims that Apple, security dealer, and a man named Harrington, so reduced his income that his "business" collapsed. He admits that he owes approximately $4,500,000 and has but $1,000.

HOT LUNCH FOR RURAL SCHOOL KIDS IS BIG SUCCESS SAYS TEACHER WHO TRIED AND ADOPTED IT AT PINE GROVE SCHOOL

Warm lunch, cooked in the schoolroom, is no longer an experiment at Pine Grove school, Franklin-tp.

Miss Viola Hiser inaugurated the innovation for the benefit of her 17 pupils several weeks ago, and upon the visit of County Superintendent L. C. Shaw at her school, she pronounced it a success from every angle.

Here's the method Miss Hiser uses, with the assistance of the mothers of the pupils:

Each child brings potatoes, milk, eggs, meat broth, bread, butter, or other foods designed according to the schedule, in lieu of the regular cold lunch

Supplies of Cocoa, crackers, sugar and condiments are purchased at a cost of one half cent per pupil per day.

An oil stove and cooking utelsils were provided at a cost of $4

At the morning recess the teacher starts the meal, with the help of the girl pupils, who are given practical lessons in cooking.

At noon the meal, consisting of some or all of the following dishes, is served: eggs, cocoa, potatoes and gravy, noodles, soup and crackers, toast with white sauce.

Small boys who are frequently under nourished because of a tendency to snatch only a bite of cold lunch and run out to play, gladly sit down and enjoy a warm dinner, the teacher says.

That it is inducive to health is evidenced in the 100 per cent attendance record the school chalked up in January, not a pupil being absent or tardy during the month

This, Superintenden Shaw asserts, is a remarkable record for a small rural school where some of the pupils walk more than a mile to and from the schoolhouse

After the lunch the dishes and utensils are carefully washed and arranged in the improvised cupboard by the teacher and the girls.

"Everything was as neat as a pin when I arrived at the school just after the noonday meal," said Mr Shaw "I only regret that I was too late to share the good things," he added.

Miss Hiser is serving her first year as teacher at Pine Grove That she is successful may be readily learned by contact wit hany of the pupils or parents within her jurisdiction. It is her fourth year as a public school teacher.

"The pupils of Pine Grove school are fortunate," said Mr. Shaw Friday, and by way of emphasizing his point he told of a little tot in anoher school in the county woo carried a lunch box for nearly three weeks, absolutely empty The other pupils finally learned that the child had no noonday lunch because there was nothing at home to send, and divided with him.

"The teacher and myself admired the little fellow for at least keeping up appearances, but it touched us deeply. Today he is provided for," the superintendent added.

MUSCLE SHOALS TO BE SECOND NIAGRA FOR POWER PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—A great water power development at Muscle Shoals, Ala., second only to Niagra Falls was pictured to the house military affairs committee today by J. W. Worthington, testifying in favor of Henry Ford's offer to lease the shoals property from the government. There is more than one million potential horse power which Ford will extract from the upper Tennessee river, if congress looks with favor on his bid, Worthington declared

Representative Quinn of Massachusetts, said the Ford offer gave more to the government than congress itself gave

He pointed out the action of the house on February 7, 1921 in refusing by a large majority to complete dam Number 2 at the shoals I say it with bowed head and sad heart, and heard congress say by action, that that part of the Muscle Shoals project was worthless. And now Ford is willing to go ahead and develop this property, I am frankly of the belief that if congress turns down this Ford offer it will be the crime of the twentieth century

MRS. ADAM SHUMAKER WILL BE BURIED AT RENNER CHURCH MON.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Renner church for Mrs Adam Schumaker, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Phillip Miller, near Pearl, Friday Burial will be made in the Renner church cemetery.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two children, Mrs. Miller, and Jacob Schumaker, of West Lafayette. Two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Born, of Marietta, O., Mrs. Frank Norman, of New Philadelphia and one brother, Daniel Lembright, of near Ragersville. There are also 21 grandchildren and 42 great-grandchildren living. The Rev. Mr Brown will have charge of the funeral.

She had been a member of the Evangelical church since the age of 16 years.

REST IN SANITARIUM PROVES BENEFICIAL

According to word received by friends and relatives in this city, Saturday, John Shaw, 423 Main-st, who is at present confined to the McMillen sanitarium at Shepard, O., near Columbus, was reported slightly improved.

Mr. Shaw was confined to the sanitarium last Sunday owning to a sudden nervous breakdonwn he suffered. Mr. Shaw believed he needed a rest and decided to recuperate in the sanitarium at Shepard. He asked Henry Richardson to accompany him to Shephard. He took Mr. Shaw there last Sunday.

Mr. Shaw's new home on Chestnut-st. near the county jail is almost completed. Mr. Richardson has the contract for building Mr. Shw's new home.

U. S. PAYS FOR LAND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.- Expenditure of $4,140,000 in payment of all claims against the government for land taken by the army during the war, is provided in a bill passed by the senate to amend the army appropriation act of 1919. The amendment sponsored by Senator Wadsworth, Republican of New York, chairman of the senate military afafirs committee was passed without a record vote.

BONOMI RESIGNS AGAIN

ROME, Feb. 18.—The resignation of Premier Bonomi and his cabinet are in the hands of King Victor Emmanuel today, for the second time in less than three weeks as a result of the defeat inflicted upon the government in the chamber of deputies Friday.

The Bonomi ministry failed to get a vote of confidence.

The vote in the chamber indicated that a majority of the deputies favor the Genoa conference.

BANKER-RAILROADER ASKS DISPENSATION CONTRAVENING RULE

Railway Labor Board Is Requested To Endorse Low Wage Scale

FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE

To Yield Would Mean A Precedent, Contention Of Labor Men

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Has the United States Railway Labor Board the power to sanction a wage scale for railway employes lower than the rate it has decreed as just and reasonable because a particular road claims it cannot operate if it must pay the prevailing wages? Festus J. Wade, the St. Louis banker who "represents every dollar of bonds and every share of stock" of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, appeared before the board Wednesday and asked it to take this action "in the name of humanity."

Representatives of the railway labor organizations asked the board to dismiss the petition on the ground that the road had made no attempt to negotiate a wage scale with the unions as the transportation act provides; that the road is not now a common carrier inasmuch as it has not operated since July, 1921, and that the road is for sale making it unnecessary for the board to take action until the people who purchase it express a desire for a settlement of a wage dispute.

Wade vigorously denied intimations by labor representatives that this appeal is a scheme to get the board to weaken its standards by cutting wages on this particular short line and thereby setting a precedent for similar cuts on other short lines in the same region and eventually for roads all over the country.

L. C. Curtis, vice president of the Railway Conductors, who handled the case for the labor organizations, developed by cross examination that while the road operated under a receiver it paid 25 per cent less than the wages fixed by the court in charge of the receivership that the court's standard was lower taht the scale fixed by the United States Railway Labor Board.

According to Wade the road has operated at a loss since 1912 and has paid no returns on the investment of $3,000,000 which it represents. It has no cash and no credit, he declared, and it ran a defict of $600,000 in the last year of operations. Its receipts during that period were less than $2,000,000. Wade and the receiver, J. C. Murray, returned again and again to the humanitarian objects they had in mind in asking a wage cut; 145,000 people in Arkansas are served exclusively by the road, they declared, and if the service is abandoned property worth $50,000,000 will become worthless. Farmers are not planting crops until they hear the board's decision and should the road not function the school children of the state will suffer because the road pays taxes when it runs.

"No man or set of men has a right to interfere with the life of a little child," Murray asserted in a quavering voice

Curtis punctured the humanitarian pleas of the receiver by the observation that the road was asking the board to fix a certain wage so that the M. & N. A. could operate without regard for the welfare of its employes. His answer to Wade's wage cutting proposal with the provision that if the road made money it would pay the workers the difference between their wages and the Labor Board's scale was that the road asked its employes to share its adversity but made no offer to share any potential prosperity.

Wade announced his approval of labor unions, declaring that he demanded union labor in all his enterprises and that he would not try to operate the road with non-union labor.

The Missouri and North Arkansas is the railroad whose receiver a year ago organized an association for the deportation of trade union oficials and resident strikers, according to testimony before President Harding by Martin C. Carey, vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors, L. M. Eddy, vice president of Order of Railway Telegraphers, and W. E. Horn of the Railway Employes Department, A. F. of L. On April 6, 1921, representatives of the sixteen asociated railroad labor organizations were driven from Harison, Ark., by an armed drink-inflamed crowd which had been asembled by a special train run at the cost of the road itself. The union chiefs appealed to Harding and to Senator Cummins to restore legal rights as the road threatened to deport the strikers through many of them owned their own homes and most of them were natives of Arkansas.

MINESOTA LABOR AND FARMERS TO MEET NEXT MONTH

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—How the organized farmers and organized city workers of Minnesota will operate politically this year will be decided at state conventions to be held next month, probably March 17.

This announcement was made by A. C. Townley, president of the Nonpartisan league, following a conference of leaders of the progressive forces held here.

Townley issued a statement, making it clear that whatever plan is decided upon, the progressive forces will unite upon it, and there will be no chance of division.

The conference recommends to the state committees of the Nonpartisan league and Working People's Political league that calls be issued for state conventions and to invite other organizations which might wish to join in political action to take similar steps. At these conventions final decisions are to be reached in regard to political plans.

Three courses of action have been suggested.

1. To attempt Townley's balance of power plan, throwing the organization support to one candidate or another just before election, according to his attitude on the liberal program.

2. To have candidates entered in the Democrat or Republican primary races for all offices.

3. To get behind the Farmer-Labor party and make of it a permanent political organization, running candidates for all offices this year upon this ticket, from United States senator down.

GOVEJNMENT CONTROL OF RAILROADS TOPIC OF SERIOUS DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Denunciations of government control or ownership of railroads, demands for repeal of "full crew" laws in the several states, and approval of wage-cutting as a remedy for the existing freight rates were features of debate in the national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here. The council session was devoted to the report of its railroad committee, which proposed that legislation be enacted, providing for a commissioner general of transportation, who should present "the interest of the public" before the interstate commerce commission and the railroad labor board.

This report met with immediate and powerful opposition. Alba B. Johnson of Philadelphia, president of the Railway Business association, voiced the fears of what appeared to be a majority of the delegates when he declared that any attempt to have the independence of the interstate commerce commission impaired by the intervention of a spokesman of the president would be "mischievious."

"It is futile and feeble for us to hide from ourselves the seriousness of the juncture at which we stand," said Johnson. "If we fail in the present experiment with regulation, the outcome will be government ownership. I do not know of any competent observer who doubts it. If we cannot regulate railroads we cannot regulate banking or business or agriculture or labor. If the government cannot regulate, it must own and operate all these activities. The background of this railway problem is our whole political and economic life. The railroads are the first trench. We must hold it.

"Whether we hold that trench or not will depend upon our railway policy and its administration. Adequacy of income as a statutory aim of regulation is fighting for its existence against the forces of repeal. The chamber stands solidly against such repeal."

Senator Cummins, as the father of the Esch-Cummins transportation act, was given an ovation when he pleaded for a fair trial of his measure without the experiment of such further pressure upon the interstate commerce commission as the committee's report proposed.

Richelieu for quality. Coshocton Groc'y

Miss Janice Richardson was a most pleasing hostess Thursday when she entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner party in her home, 404 north Eighth-st.

Miniature red hearts strung on ribbon and extended from the chandelier to the individual places, were suggestive of St. Valentine's Day. A graceful basket of red carnations was used as a centerpiece and at either end, red candles in crystal holders were placed. Red crepe paper shades covering the lights completed the pretty setting.

Appropriate cards marked places for, Miss Margaret Huff, Miss Nelle Griffith, Miss Esther Lower, Robert McCann, James Shepler, Harry McCleary, Boyd Huff and Miss Richardson.

DIST. ATTORNEY IS SUSPENDED BY DAUGHERTY

John V. Clinin.

John V. Clinin, assistant U. S district attorney at Chicago, has been suspended by Attorney General Daugherty at Clinin's request, while differences in the Chicago office are settled. Clinin's clashes with Judge Landis and Judge Evans in regard to the disposition of some liquor cases caused the situation, it is said.

ONE REAL WELCOME SURPRISED PRINCE ON VISIT TO INDIA

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—The British press propaganda which has been flooding the world with stories and pictures concerning the supposed triumphal progress of the Prince of Wales thru India fell down with a thump when a few real cheers in a suburb of the town of Angra almost dazed the royal party and their hard pressed cheer leaders.

The London Times prints a dispatch dated February 13, stating that the reception of the Prince of Wales in Angra was an agreeable surprise. "Altho the hartal (boycott strike) was almost complete and everything closed down, in the outlying district the bazaars and shops were open. A crowd of 3,000 persons were about the station"—in contrast to the air of dead and deserted cities that has been the usual Hindu "welcome" to the prince.

Forgetting the official attitude which insists stubbornly on the success of the prince's tour, the Times remarks that this unexpected friendly local atmosphere must not be taken as indicating that the condition of the people in the whole area of the United Provinces of India is other than very serious.

SCHOLARSHIP BAZAAR CLOSES IN ONE WEEK

The White Elephant Bazaar or rummage sale being held in a lower room at the Carnegie library every day under the auspices of the Scholarship Fund committee of the Coshocton Federated Clubs, will close one week from today, was the announcement made this afternoon by a member of the committee.

So far the proceeds from the sales have amounted to $140. Last year the bazaar closed with over $200 in the treasury, but the sale continued for five weeks instead of four.

The committee in charge today is making its final appeal for donations of clothing. The clothing is about all sold out and the public is urged to donate clothing and dishes to meet the demand. There are plenty of other articles in stock at the bazaar room to be disposed of before the sale is over.

WHITE, BROWN, RED BREAD IS BREAD TO STARVING RUSSIANS

NEW YORK, Feb 18—"The idea of the propaganda against the Russian relief agencies," said Captain Paxton Hibben, a member of the Near East Relief Commission, recently returned from Russia, "seems to be to brand every man or women in the United States who dares to try to save a starving child in Russia otherwise than thru the American Relief Administration as a 'red' or an associate of 'reds.'"

Hibben declared that the resources of the American Relief Administration are not sufficient to feed all those who are starving in the Volga famine districts.

The Big Eating Nations.

Among modern nations the greatest eaters are the Germans, English, French and the Americans, according to one authority. The diet of the Spaniards and the Italians is notably less substantial than that of the English and Germans. The Americans, this authority holds, are on the average the greatest eaters in the world. Carlyle said to Emerson: "The best thing I know of that country is, that in it a man can have meat for his labor."

RELEASE OF PRISONER FROM PENITENTIARY IS URGED THRU LEAFLETS

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—Five thousand copies of an amnesty leaflet urging the release from Leavenworth penitentiary of John Pancner, Detroit political prisoner, have been distributed here.

"If a murderer," the leaflet states, "were to say that he was sorry for what he had done, a day or a year after he was locked in a cell, he would still be kept in jail. This is because his imprisonment would be a punishment for a violation of a law. But if John Pancner, for example, should say to his warden to the department of Justice, and to the attorney general, that he was sorry for what he had done, that he would quit the I. W. W. and would never support the labor movement or engage in a free speech fight in the future, he would be given his freedom and his railroad fare in an hour.

"There are still in federal prisons today, three years after the armistice, 118 men convicted under the espionage act and other war laws. There are 113 at Leavenworth, and 5 at McNeil's Island, Wash."

"Catsup."

Catsup is a word derived from the name of an East Indian pickle. The term was first applied to the boiled spiced juice from salted mushrooms, but is now freely used for various sauces which consist of the pulp—boiled, strained and seasoned—of tomatoes, green walnuts, etc.

IN JAIL HEREAFTER

AKRON, Feb. 18.—Charles Nunn, proprietor of a soft drink place, spent 45 minutes in jail instead of on Broadway. Nunn came to jail to put up bond for his wife and bartender. A policeman recognized him as the owner of the place and arrested him. He gained a release when a neighbor put up $1,000 for him.

Good Advice For Lawyers

JUSTICE Clark of the Federal Supreme Court, in his address to the alumni of the law school of New York University the other evening, gave evidence of a spirit which, if it were universal among our judges, would do much to restore popular confidence in the courts.

Justice Clark showed that there the American bench holds at least one man whose sympathies are with the masses of the people and who is not satisfied to the progress held back and justice denied because of a reactionary or Pharisaical interpretation of the law. Upon lawyers and judges, as our institutions operate, falls a large share of responsibility for remedying the evils which afflict the nation.

These evils are real, not theoretical. "To have millions of men and women idle and in want, and agriculture in greater distress than ever before in this, the richest farm country in the world," said Justice Clark, "presents a problem in domestic reorganization and readjustment of the greatest public concern." But what are the men of law doing about it? Primarily they are splitting hairs. "Unless he sits on the bench of the Supreme Court and hears day after day the astonishing discussions and distinctions there presented," Justice Clark went on, "no man can fully realize the extent to which ingenuity and refinement of constitutional discussion are rapidly converting the members of our profession in this country into a group of casuists rivalling the Middle Age schoolmen in subtlety of distinction and futility of argument."

If John Marshall were to return, the speaker thot, he would find ten times as many lawyers as were at large in his time engaged by casuistry and metaphysics "to erect barriers against every change proposed in the name of progress."

Laymen frequently assail the law with somewhat similar charges, altho not as a rule so cogently, and it is the habit of lawyers to reply that altho injustice may result in specific cases the general trend is toward righteousness. But here is an opposite conclusion arrived at by a lawyer whose authority will not be questioned. The law is actually failing us in dealing with the industrial and economic conditions which furnish the central problems of our day.

Lodge's Opening Gun

SENATOR Lodge has opened the congressional campaign with a citation of figures showing how much more cheaply a Republican Congress can carry on peace than a Democratic Congress can carry on war, with a recital of the achievements of the arms conference—achievements which would have been attained a year or two years ago had it not been for the obstructive partisan leadership of Mr. Lodge—and b ythe astounding assertion that "no Congress in time of peace has ever shown such an amount of important, effective and remedial legislation as has been enacted by the present Congress since it has been in session."

The Senator's speech Thursday at Boston was full of climaxes. The most striking of these followed his claims of the accomplishments of the arms conference when he said: "These are questions which arise above the region of politics but the fact remains that it was under a Republican President that steps have been taken under which a thoroly American policy has been carried out."

Fashions change with Mr. Lodge. He might at least have named the date when, for him, "these" became questions "which arise above the region of politics." That date was election day, November, 1920. Now the Senator indicates that the period of peace above politics already has come to an end. Notwithstanding his apology, he has taken the lead in exploiting the arms conference as a Republican achievement.

As to the glowing record of achievement of the present Congress we would apply to Senator Lodge for a bill of particulars. We know that the first Congress under President Wilson passed a tariff reduction and revenue bill, the Federal reserve act, which was a bulwark in war and which has saved the country through the recent and continuing industrial depression; the act creating the Federal Trade Commission, an act supplementing the anti-trust laws, an industrial conciliation act, an act authorizing the creation of a bureau of war risk insurance and a volunteer military service act, aside from the usual grist of minor legislation.

What has the present Congress to compare with this record? And why on top of its glowing record is it now cowering in fear of action on the bonus bill? The opposition could ask no better campaign material than the record of the Republican Congress to date.

Cancelling War Debts

LOUIS Loucheur, minister of the Liberated Regions under both Clemenceau and Briand and one of the most intelligent and liberal financial authorities in France, has frankly asked for a cancellation of all the war debts owed among the allied and associated powers. Only in this way, according to a copyrighted despatch to the New York World, does Mr. Loucheur see any assurance for the economic salvation of mankind.

The French financier's opinion will be howled down by many who express a veritable Shylock's concern to collect the debts owned the United States by our former associates. Few citizens, however, who have taken the trouble to inform themselves concerning the complexities of the matter see any practicable method of collection. We cannot receive payment for our foreign debts and at the same time hold our foreign trade. We would be unwilling to accept payment in the currency we actually loaned, commodities—food, ammunition, and other war materials. To do so would wreck our own economic life. Every nation involved sees th esituation not less disastrous.

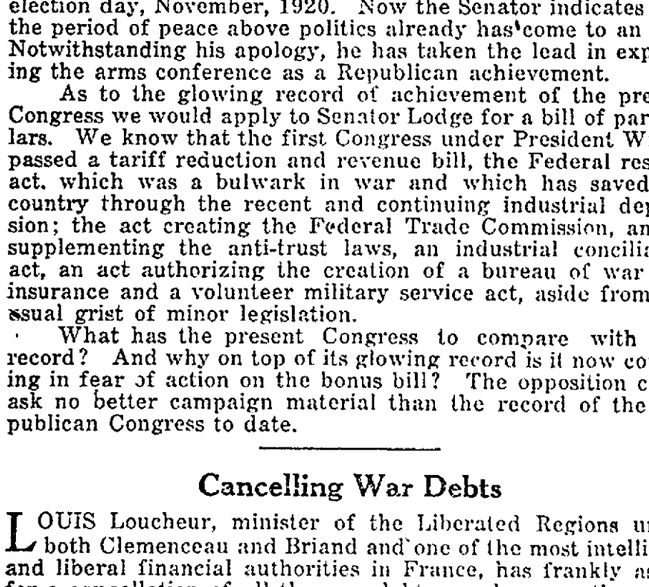

The enormity of the obligation necessitates this. Here are the principal items:

Debt owned by foreign governments to the United States	$10,141,267,585.63
Debt owed by foreign governments to British government (approximately)	8,000,000,000.00
Present value of reparations owed by Germany	12,500,000,000.00

The first item is the total reported by Secretary Mellon in his annual report. The others are based on figures taken from John Maynard Keynes's new book "A Revision of the Treaty."

Mr. Loucheur's proposal was that France pay her obligations to the United States and to Great Britain thru an issuance of the C bonds provided for in the Treaty of Versailles. The weakness of his proposal is that nobody during the last two years has taken the C bonds seriously. The indefinite obligation they represent is so far beyond the capacity of the German people to pay that the subject seems to have been passed over at most of the conferences held since the peace treaty was signed. Germany certainly would get no relief from a cancellation of these prosposed bonds, which are inherently worthless. On the other hand, if the entire question of reparations were reopened and considered in connection with the war obligations of all the countries involved the possibility of economic recovery might be at hand.

This is the responsibility which the Genoa conference ought to undertake. That it probably will not do so is attributable to the reluctance of this country as well as of France to face the realities of the present.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Broadway has its tribal language, born in the atmosphere of the cafes, that is as strange to alien ears as the natives chatter of Somaliland. New words and new phrases are born over night and are picked up and mouthed by the devotees of supposedly bright patter.

"My blue serge is out of town" says one of those lads in belted coats He is speaking of the only girl. He used to call her "his skirt." "Hello, old flick" is a form of salutation. "Flick" means fellow and smacks of Picadilly's term "old thing."

"Where is your Urban set?" inquires another. He means the fellow's girl. Urban is a scenic painter of reknown. A dollar is universally known along Broadway as a "smacker" or "piastre." Food is classed in the Shanghai term of "chow."

"Apple sauce" as a term for flattery has reached the social elect. A society weekly quotes a dowager as referring to her rival's claim of leadership as "apple sauce." This slang originated in Wolpin's, a theatrical eatery patronized by vaudeville folk.

The other night in a cafe a group of the bright talkers were discussing some figure along the Rialto. A smartly dressed girl in pyjama clothes classed him "as a good egg, but toppy"—whatever that may mean.

One of her companions, a sort of modern circe, ventured: "He's in the produce business. That's what is the matter. Always giving someone the raspberry. Not long ago he turned a nifty, scooped to Philly and came back with headlights. He can't keep that up and expect soft rockers."

All nodded gravely in an understanding way. Some of this patter creeps up from the underworld and some is fashioned in the half world of the cafes. For the user, it denotes a certain flair and by constant usage it eventually becomes part of polite talk among respectables.

He was a typical kind of middle-aged Fifth Avenue dandy. As he sat in the barber chair his head revealed only a few straggling and carefully nurtured strands of hair. As the barber started gently to massage the top of his head, he cried the warning: "Look out for No. 7."

The New York society for the Suppression of Vice is in favor of a state censorship of books. And Harvey O'Higgins writes gayly to one of the newspapers that despite the fact he is an author he is for it. "I think" he writes "what Prohibition has done for the consumption of alcohol. Imagine what it would do fom us authors if we could get them bootlegging books. All book shops and public libraries handling only near books containing one tenth of 1 per cent kick, and illicit book bars selling us at bootleg prices. Everybody going out of an evening with a book on his hip."

Richard Carle is co-operating in a Broadway musical play. And he is making a hit. For years this comedian has been able to play to huge audiences out of town but somehow or other in New York he has only had brief snatches of success. Many critics regard him as one of the foremost comedians. He is an indefatigable worker and his style of humour is original. There is no understanding the whims of Broadway. Just the fact that Carle is so popular in the provinces may have something to do with the Broadway viewpoint.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

HE DEFENDS MERE MAN

Editor The Tribune:

I have been reading with interest the articles regarding the present day girl. Several things have been said censuring the men of today and I would like to say a few words in our defense.

In one article a young lady says, 'the modern girl does not want to marry. She realizes that she is happy and carefree single. Why give up her life to be man's slave." If all girls think as this young lady does, what will happen to the future generation? She says a girl will do her part in the world's work. There is no nobler, grander work than that our mothers did; bringing children into this world.

In Columbus there is an Italian woman, possessing a wonderful voice. Great singers have advised her to go away and study and she would become famous. She said "No, I will not go and leave my husband and babies." She chose happiness instead of a career. Our American girls could take a lesson from this woman. If our schools would teach our girls more about house work there would be many a happier home.

Did you ever hear a crowd of girls talking? Usually the topic of their conversation is the boys. Girls of fifteen and sixteen brag of their "steadies" and their unchaperoned automobile rides. The girls are not alone to blame. Parents have their responsibility in this matter, too. A girl at that age needs the companionship of their mother more than the companionship of a "steady." Many mothers do not realize this. Show me a young girl who does this and I will show you a young girl's home without the proper environments.

A gentleman said, "I never notice what a woman wears. No gentleman will stare at a lady and then make remarks." If all men were like this gentleman, girls would soon discard their light-weight clothing for clothes more suitable for winter weather. Remember, girls dress for men. They do not care whether men remark about them or they would not be so conspicuous in their dress.

We stand on street corners bothering dozens of girls and not one has taken pity on us and we must go home alone. Yes, that's true. It is not because a girl does not want the fellows but because just a little farther up the street is some Dennison youth or a fellow with an automobile. What chance has a poor pedestrian (or rubbish) that stands on the street corner?

It is not always the men that bother the girls. Did you ever, during your working hours, or while on the street, see a girl "hanging around" a fellow? Is there anything more disgusting? A man should always take the initiative in a friendship. Yes, you are fickle and insincere and we can not truly respect a girl like that

In Raleigh's time men considered it an honor to kiss a woman's hand. These days if you do not kiss her the first time you are with her, she considers you "slow."

Girls do not enforce other rules of convention, so why should we wait for an introduction? Men that stick to conventions are "slow" old fashioned and out of date.

You say what has become of Raleigh who laid his coat across the mud for Elizabeth to walk on? Girls, make us respect you and show us you are of Elizabeth's type and we will make Raleigh look like a piker.

Signed WINFIELD BARTON.

OPPOSES THE SINGLE TAX

Editor The Tribune & Times-Age:

On February 8, the farmers of Coshocton County met at the courthouse to discuss the question of reappraisement of real estate. On the following day, February 9, there appeared in your paper an editorial, the design of which was to set forth the Henry George theory of taxation as the only method that would give the needed relief.

Let me give you my interpretation of the single tax. It came forth a weak, pale child and it is still a frail child, little known and heard of only once in a while. You state that "a tax on the privilege of land owning is the only tax ever devised which stays where first imposed."

In fact, your theory put into practice would be something like this: If you are a teamster and your load becomes too burdensome for both Charley and Bill, just unhitch Charley and tie him to the fence, hitch Bill to the end of the tongue and see the mud fly. Don't take my word for it, just try it that's all. Again, just think for a moment of the absurdity of a long freight or passenger train being drawn by two engines, double-headers, when one single one could do the work much better. You even refer to the economists and scientists, many of them to prove this theory but the most learned men are finite mortals at best and liable to be mistaken.

The dead limb cannot contribute any life giving power to the green tree. The paralyzed arm cannot contribute any life giving properties to the human body. All those who receive benefits and protection from organized government not only should be willing, but should love to support his protector.

In speaking of poverty, Mr. Editor, let me say, if you will, just take time and pains to look around and you can find many you know who started at the bottom and have gone to the top, and many have started at the top and landed at the bottom and taxation had nothing at all to do with it, either.

You assert that the result of a faulty system of taxation is the ominous concentration of wealth. That was the Lenine and Trotzky hobby and look at Russia today! There is hardly a national doorstep in the family of nations today but they have been standing on knocking at the door of the concentration of wealth to develop their natural resources.

On principles of uniformity to each and all, the same principles are carried out in the architectural world. To illustrate: Mr. A has a farm of one hundred acres worth $4000.00. And annual tax of one and one-half per cent would amount to $60 annually. B along with fourteen others have $4000 each forming a stock company say for the newspaper business. Would that transaction come under the head of ominous concentration of wealth that you mention? Now, fifteen farmers have an investment of $60,000 in fifteen, one-hundred acre farms. They pay an annual tax on same of at the rate of one and one-half per cent amounting to $900. If your concentration of $60,000 is exempt those fifteen farmers will have to double up and pay yours, too, making a sum total of $1800.

Now, Mr. Editor, you make mention of several kinds of taxation. Aristocratic or Crooked Taxes, taxes that bear upon the privilege of holding land, then you mention straight taxation. We would like for you to define for the benefit of the fifteen farmers and the fifteen stock-holders of which you are one, just the particular class mentioned above the farmers and the stock-holders belong to. You also refer to the sink hole of economic rent. Let me ask if you please, what kind of offices are under the same roof, namely the home of the Tribune.

I will say in conclusion that government is just an organization and I know of no organization, fraternal or otherwise that exempts a part of its members from their annual dues, shifting the entire burden on others, unless it would be along the line of charity. So let me close, by reminding you of the fact that the uniform rule of taxation is the only just rule—it is nature's rule, the Golden Rule, and like the old time religion, it's good enough for me, and you.

ALLEN MARSHALL.

TAXATION AND THE FARMER

Editor of Tribune:

In your issue of Feb. 10th in an editorial the present balled up condition of the tax situation is attributed to the failure of the uniform tax law to work efficiently and then there is an effort made to make it appear that the single tax would remedy the situation. The argument might be convincing were it not for so many cold hard facts to the contrary.

To begin with there is no uniform tax law on the statute books that has ever been enforced or one which has ever been backed up with any adequate machinery for enforcement. The one in the constitution of the state has been ignored by our legislatures, tax officials and tax dodgers ever since its first adoption over 70 years ago and has been fought and evaded by the taxing machinery of the state on every occasion an attempt has been made to secure or provide for its enforcement.

The State has been practically under the control of a combination of classificationists and tax dodgers for over 70 years and it is not due to the uniform tax provision in the state constitution that every city, town, county and township of the state is pinched for want of revenue but to the disregard of the tax spending officials, for lack of business methods in the discharge of their duties, and to the indolent and timid attitude of those responsible for the enforcement of the laws providing public revenue.

If there were half the zeal in the efforts to enforce the uniform tax law as there is in spending the taxes there would be ample revenue provided business methods were employed in the matter of public expenditures.

All we need to do to verify these statements is to go to the county records of this (Coshocton) or any other county of the state and look over the auditor's books and see who have paid the bulk of the taxes over the state, see what classes of property have been concealed from tax officials and then go and see what the tax rates have been since 1850 down to the present.

Then go to the other records and see what rates of interest have been charged and collected during that time and when and how tax rates began to increase and interest rates to decline. Then you can see who sponged their public service by dodging their taxes.

It will be found that farm lands and farm personals have had to pay on an average nearer their actual values than any other classes of property and that notwithstanding very low rates of taxation for over half the time and usurious rates of interest and discounts, the properties of the classificationists have for the greater part of the time escaped to a great extent, when not altogether, any taxation. There are quite a number of men living in Coshocton county today who can verify these statements and know from personal experience their truth.

It never mattered whether tax rates were high or low, interest rates high or low, land valuation high or low, farm products high or low the farmer always had to pay his full share of taxes and a great part of the taxes of other classes of property.

As one of the speakers is reported to have remarked it would make no difference how much revenue was raised a reckless disregard of business methods would run thru with all of it.

During the past 5 years the taxpayers of the state and every county, city, town and township have been subjected to drive after drive for funds for this, that, and the other by methods not much more respectable than that of the hold-up artist. People were almost compelled to buy, subscribe and give whatever was demanded of them without liberty of consulting their means to give. That with increased cost of living, increase of official salaries and reckless public improvements at greatly increased cost have all together swelled private expenses to exceed all the income from increased prices for farm products.

There came deflation for the farmer for all his products with continued inflated expenses. Isn't he fully justified in revolting against the proposition to give the Oliver Twists in office more by revaluation of farm property? No doubt that at the last valuation there were some lands undervalued and there were, no doubt, farm lands overvalued and they would very likely about balance so a revaluation at this time would give some fellows a good fat job at public expense and there would be more money thru a general raise in values to satisfy those who itch to get their fingers into the public funds.

The valuation of 1810 was a great deal above the average selling price of land for the decade of 1870 to 80. So were the valuations of 1880 and 1890. The valuation of 1900 was the only one that can be said to be below the average selling price for the following 10 years.

The valuation of 1910 in conformity with the Smith one per cent law was probably as fair as any ever made and afforded a good opportunity for equal valuation as any and very likely a great deal better conditions for it than the present. What assurance can be offered that a valuation at present would not result in greater dissatisfaction than the valuation we have now?

Why not make a greater effort to adjust public expenses to balance present revenue instead of increasing the tax burden to guess at additional expenses? D. S. SNIDER.

'TWAS EVER THIS

I wear my silken shirts and scarves, and shoes that cost twelve bones, and somewhere some poor aleck starves, and sends up anguished groans. I eat long strips of costly pie, and drink imported tea: and hungry rounders amble by, and dour-eyed snarl at me. I ride around in my sedan, whose price was pretty steep, and pass some sore and seedy man who has no place to sleep. Oh, is it right and is it just for me to ride in state, while, blinded by my smoke and dust, toils on some hapless skate. Am I a sinner when I eat, or buy a gorgeous lid, or clothe my large but shapely feet in kangaroo or kid? Would there be less of poverty, of sorrow and despair, if I should from the fleshpots flee and fill a hermit's lair? I doubt it much: the wail of woe would rise from people riled, if I should let my whiskers grow and in the woods run wild. If I quit buying shirts and hats, with my spare chickens fed, some girls in crowded city flats might lose the jobs they need. The boss would say, "There's been a slump in spangled shirts and socks, and so I shoo you to the dump, and pay you no more rocks." It's hard to know just what to do, in this cheap vale of tears; the thing that looks all right to you, to me a frost appears.

Richelieu for quality. Coshocton Groc'y

Miss Janice Richardson was a most pleasing hostess Thursday when she entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner party in her home, 404 north Eighth-st.

Miniature red hearts strung on ribbon and extended from the chandelier to the individual places, were suggestive of St. Valentine's Day. A graceful basket of red carnations was used as a centerpiece and at either end, red candles in crystal holders were placed. Red crepe paper shades covering the lights completed the pretty setting.

Appropriate cards marked places for, Miss Margaret Huff, Miss Nelle Griffith, Miss Esther Lower, Robert McCann, James Shopler, Harry McCleary, Boyd Huff and Miss Richardson.

The Woman's Benefit Association of the Lady Maccabees will enjoy a Washington birthday party at the lodge rooms, Monday evening.

A special feature of the evening will be the "curiosity box." All members are expected to be in attendance for the occasion.

Mrs. Lloyd Lowery, Otsego-av and Miss Virgil McCurdy Tunnel Hill, are spending a few days as the guests of Miss Mabel McCoy, at Millfork.

Richelieu for quality. Coshocton Groc'y

Miss Florence Hawkins, of Gladesville, Ga., is visiting for a few days with friends in this city, enroute to Pennsylvania for an extended stay with relatives.

Richelieu for quality. Coshocton Groc'y

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ling entertained with an oyster supper at their home on Coshocton route 1, Friday evening for the pleasure of the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Boyd, Mr and Mrs. Tracey Renfrew, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams, Nellie and Forrest Adams and Marjorie and Eugene Boyd.

DIST. ATTORNEY IS SUSPENDED BY DAUGHERTY

John V. Clinin.

John V. Clinin, assistant U. S district attorney at Chicago, has been suspended by Attorney General Daugherty at Clinin's request, while differences in the Chicago office are settled. Clinin's clashes with Judge Landis and Judge Evans in regard to the disposition of some liquor cases caused the situation, it is said.

ONE REAL WELCOME SURPRISED PRINCE ON VISIT TO INDIA

CHICAGO, Feb. 18—The British press propaganda which has been flooding the world with stories and pictures concerning the supposed triumphal progress of the Prince of Wales thru India fell down with a thump when a few real cheers in a suburb of the town of Angra almost dazed the royal party and their hard pressed cheer leaders.

The London Times prints a dispatch dated February 13, stating that the reception of the Prince of Wales in Angra was an agreeable surprise. "Altho the hartal (boycott strike) was almost complete and everything closed down, in the outlying district the bazaars and shops were open. A crowd of 3,000 persons were about the station"—in contract to the air of dead and deserted cities that has been the usual Hindu "welcome" to the prince.

Forgetting the official attitude which insists stubbornly on the success of the prince's tour, the Times remarks that this unexpected friendly local atmosphere must not be taken as indicating that the condition of the people in the whole area of the United Provinces of India is other than very serious.

SCHOLARSHIP BAZAAR CLOSES IN ONE WEEK

The White Elephant Bazaar or rummage sale being held in a lower room at the Carnegie library every day under the auspices of the Scholarship Fund committee of the Coshocton Federated Clubs, will close one week from today, was the announcement made this afternoon by a member of the committee.

So far the proceeds from the sales have amounted to $140. Last year the bazaar closed with over $200 in the treasury, but the sale continued for five weeks instead of four.

The committee in charge today is making its final appeal for donations of clothing. The clothing is about all sold out and the public is urged to donate clothing and dishes to meet the demand. There are plenty of other articles in stock at the bazaar room to be disposed of before the sale is over.

WHITE, BROWN, RED BREAD IS BREAD TO STARVING RUSSIANS

NEW YORK, Feb 18—"The idea of the propaganda against the Russian relief agencies," said Captain Paxton Hibben, a member of the Near East Relief Commission, recently returned from Russia, "seems to be to brand every man or woman in the United States who dares to try to save a starving child in Russia otherwise than thru the American Relief Administration as a 'red' or an associate of 'reds.'"

Hibben declared that the resources of the American Relief Administration are not sufficient to feed all those who are starving in the Volga famine districts.

The Big Eating Nations.

Among modern nations the greatest eaters are the Germans, English, French and the Americans, according to one authority. The diet of the Spaniards and the Italians is notably less substantial than that of the English and Germans. The Americans, this authority holds, are on the average the greatest eaters in the world. Carlyle said to Emerson: "The best thing I know of that country is, that in it a man can have meat for his labor."

"Saturday Night"

A Paramount Picture

A STORY that starts where others leave off—where the poor girl marries her rich ideal—where the heiress, tired of society's whims, weds a plain man of the people.
And when their dreams have come true at the altar—what of the years that follow?
A picture that takes the old adage, "Like to like," and weaves it into a gorgeous tapestry of life—New York life! with its pleasure, its pain, its thousand alluring varieties!

RELEASE OF PRISONER WIFE WILL REMAIN FROM PENITENTIARY IS URGED THRU LEAFLETS

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—Five thousand copies of an amnesty leaflet urging the release from Leavenworth penitentiary of John Pancner, Detroit political prisoner, have been distributed here.

"If a murderer," the leaflet states, "were to say that he was sorry for what he had done, a day or a year after he was locked in a cell, he would still be kept in jail. This is because his imprisonment would be a punishment for a violation of a law. But if John Pancner, for example, should say to his warden to the department of Justice, and to the attorney general, that he was sorry for what he had done, that he would quit the I. W. W. and would never support the labor movement or engage in a free speech fight in the future, he would be given his freedom and his railroad fare in an hour.

"There are still in federal prisons today, three years after the armistice, 118 men convicted under the espionage act and other war laws. There are 113 at Leavenworth, and 5 at McNeil's Island, Wash."

"Catsup."

Catsup is a word derived from the name of an East Indian pickle. The term was first applied to the boiled spiced juice from salted mushrooms, but is now freely used for various sauces which consist of the pulp—boiled, strained and seasoned—of tomatoes, green walnuts, etc.

IN JAIL HEREAFTER

AKRON, Feb. 18.—Charles Nunn, proprietor of a soft drink place, spent 45 minutes in jail instead of on Broadway. Nunn came to jail to put up bond for his wife and bartender. A policeman recognized him as the owner of the place and arrested him. He gained a release when a neighbor put up $1,000 for him.

Good Advice For Lawyers

JUSTICE Clark of the Federal Supreme Court, in his address to the alumni of the law school of New York University the other evening, gave evidence of a spirit which, if it were universal among our judges, would do much to restore popular confidence in the courts.

Justice Clark showed that there the American bench holds at least one man whose sympathies are with the masses of the people and who is not satisfied to the progress held back and justice denied because of a reactionary or Pharisaical interpretation of the law. Upon lawyers and judges, as our institutions operate, falls a large share of responsibility for remedying the evils which afflict the nation.

These evils are real, not theoretical. "To have millions of men and women idle and in want, and agriculture in greater distress than ever before in this, the richest farm country in the world," said Justice Clark, "presents a problem in domestic reorganization and readjustment of the greatest public concern." But what are the men of law doing about it? Primarily they are splitting hairs. "Unless he sits on the bench of the Supreme Court and hears day after day the astonishing discussions and distinctions there presented," Justice Clark went on, "no man can fully realize the extent to which ingenuity and refinement of constitutional discussion are rapidly converting the members of our profession in this country into a group of casuists rivalling the Middle Age schoolmen in subtlety of distinction and futility of argument."

If John Marshall were to return, the speaker thot, he would find ten times as many lawyers as were at large in his time engaged by casuistry and metaphysics "to erect barriers against every change proposed in the name of progress."

Laymen frequently assail the law with somewhat similar charges, altho not as a rule so cogently, and it is the habit of lawyers to reply that altho injustice may result in specific cases the general trend is toward righteousness. But here is an opposite conclusion arrived at by a lawyer whose authority will not be questioned. The law is actually failing us in dealing with the industrial and economic conditions which furnish the central problems of our day.

Lodge's Opening Gun

SENATOR Lodge has opened the congressional campaign with a citation of figures showing how much more cheaply a Republican Congress can carry on peace than a Democratic Congress can carry on war, with a recital of the achievements of the arms conference—achievements which would have been attained a year or two years ago had it not been for the obstructive partisan leadership of Mr. Lodge—and b ythe astounding assertion that "no Congress in time of peace has ever shown such an amount of important, effective and remedial legislation as has been enacted by the present Congress since it has been in session."

The Senator's speech Thursday at Boston was full of climaxes. The most striking of these followed his claims of the accomplishments of the arms conference when he said: "These are questions which arise above the region of politics but the fact remains that it was under a Republican President that steps have been taken under which a thoroly American policy has been carried out."

Fashions change with Mr. Lodge. He might at least have named the date when, for him, "these" became questions "which arise above the region of politics." That date was election day, November, 1920. Now the Senator indicates that the period of peace above politics already has come to an end. Notwithstanding his apology, he has taken the lead in exploiting the arms conference as a Republican achievement.

As to the glowing record of achievement of the present Congress we would apply to Senator Lodge for a bill of particulars. We know that the first Congress under President Wilson passed a tariff reduction and revenue bill, the Federal reserve act, which was a bulwark in war and which has saved the country through the recent and continuing industrial depression; the act creating the Federal Trade Commission, an act supplementing the anti-trust laws, an industrial conciliation act, an act authorizing the creation of a bureau of war risk insurance and a volunteer military service act, aside from the usual grist of minor legislation.

What has the present Congress to compare with this record? And why on top of its glowing record is it now cowering in fear of action on the bonus bill? The opposition could ask no better campaign material than the record of the Republican Congress to date.

Cancelling War Debts

LOUIS Loucheur, minister of the Liberated Regions under both Clemenceau and Briand and one of the most intelligent and liberal financial authorities in France, has frankly asked for a cancellation of all the war debts owed among the allied and associated powers. Only in this way, according to a copyrighted despatch to the New York World, does Mr. Loucheur see any assurance for the economic salvation of mankind.

The French financier's opinion will be howled down by many who express a veritable Shylock's concern to collect the debts owned the United States by our former associates. Few citizens, however, who have taken the trouble to inform themselves concerning the complexities of the matter see any practicable method of collection. We cannot receive payment for our foreign debts and at the same time hold our foreign trade. We would be unwilling to accept payment in the currency we actually loaned, commodities—food, ammunition, and other war materials. To do so would wreck our own economic life. Every nation involved sees th esituation not less disastrous.

The enormity of the obligation necessitates this. Here are the principal items:

Debt owned by foreign governments to the United States	$10,141,267,585.68
Debt owed by foreign governments to British government (approximately)	8,000,000,000.00
Present value of reparations owed by Germany	12,500,000,000.00

The first item is the total reported by Secretary Mellon in his annual report. The others are based on figures taken from John Maynard Keynes's new book "A Revision of the Treaty."

Mr. Loucheur's proposal was that France pay her obligations to the United States and to Great Britain thru an issuance of the C bonds provided for in the Treaty of Versailles. The weakness of his proposal is that nobody during the last two years has taken the C bonds seriously. The indefinite obligation they represent is so far beyond the capacity of the German people to pay that the subject seems to have been passed over at most of the conferences held since the peace treaty was signed. Germany certainly would get no relief from a cancellation of these prosposed bonds, which are inherently worthless. On the other hand, if the entire question of reparations were reopened and considered in connection with the war obligations of all the countries involved the possibility of economic recovery might be at hand.

This is the responsibility which the Genoa conference ought to undertake. That it probably will not do so is attributable to the reluctance of this country as well as of France to face the realities of the present.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Broadway has its tribal language, born in the atmosphere of the cafes, that is as strange to alien ears as the natives chatter of Somaliland. New words and new phrases are born over night and are picked up and mouthed by the devotees of supposedly bright patter.

"My blue serge is out of town" says one of those lads in belted coats. He is speaking of the only girl. He used to call her "his skirt." "If Ho, old flick" is a form of salutation. "Flick" means fellow and smacks of Picadilly's term "old thing."

"Where is your Urban set?" inquires another. He means the fellow's girl. Urban is a scenic painter of reknown. A dollar is universally known along Broadway as a "smacker" or "plastro." Food is classed in the Shanghai term of "chow."

"Apple sauce" as a term for flattery has reached the social elect. A society weekly quotes a dowager as referring to her rival's claim of leadership as "apple sauce." This slang originated in Wolpin's, a theatrical eatery patronized by vaudeville folk.

The other night in a cafe a group of the bright talkers were discussing some figure along the Rialto. A smartly dressed girl in evening clothes classed him "as a good egg, but toppy"—whatever that may mean. One of her companions, a sort of modern circe, ventured: "He's in the produce business. That's what is the matter. Always giving someone the raspberry. Not long ago he turned a nifty, scooted to Philly and came back with headlights. He can't keep that up and expect soft rockers."

All nodded gravely in an understanding way. Some of this patter creeps up from the underworld and some is fashioned in the half world of the cafes. For the user, it denotes a certain flair and by constant usage it eventually becomes part of polite talk among respectables.

He was a typical kind of middle-aged Fifth Avenue dandy. As he sat in the barber chair his head revealed only a few straggling and carefully nurtured strands of hair. As the barber started gently to massage the top of his head, he cried the warning: "Look out for No. 7."

The New York society for the Suppression of Vice is in favor of a state censorship of books. And Harvey O'Higgins writes gayly to one of the newspapers that despite the fact he is an author he is for it. "Think" he writes "what Prohibition has done for the consumption of alcohol. Imagine what it would do fom us authors if we could get them bootlegging books. All book shops and public libraries handling only near books containing one tenth of 1 per cent kick, and illicit book bars selling us at bootleg prices. Everybody going out of an evening with a book on his hip."

Richard Carle is co-operating in a Broadway musical play. And he is making a hit. For years this comedian has been able to play to huge audiences out of town but somehow or other in New York he has only had brief snatches of success. Many critics regard him as one of the foremost comedians. He is an indefatigable worker and his style of humour is original. There is no understanding the whims of Broadway. Just the fact that Carle is so popular in the provinces may have something to do with the Broadway viewpoint.

WALT MASON

'TWAS EVER THIS

I wear my silken shirts and scarves, and shoes that cost twelve bones, and somewhere some poor aleck starves, and sends up anguished groans. I eat long strips of costly pie, and drink imported tea; and hungry reubens amble by, and doubtless snarl at me. I ride around in my sedan, whose price was pretty steep, and pass some sore and seedy man who has no place to sleep. Oh, is it right and is it just for me so ride in state, while, blinded by my smoke and dust, toils on some hapless skate? Am I a sinner when I eat, or buy a gorgeous lid, or clothe my large but shapely feet in kangaroo or kid? Would there be less of poverty, of sorrow and despair, if I should from the fleshpots flee and fill a hermit's lair? I doubt it much; the wail of woe would rise from people riled, if I should let my whiskers grow and in the woods run wild. If I quit buying shirts and hats, with my spare chicken feed, some girls in crowded city flats might lose the jobs they need. The boss would say, "There's been a slump in spangled shirts and socks, and so I shoo you to the dump, and pay you no more rocks." It's hard to know just what to do, in this cheap vale of tears; the thing that looks all right to you, to me a frost appears.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

HE DEFENDS MERE MAN

Editor The Tribune:

I have been reading with interest the articles regarding the present day girl. Several things have been said censuring the men of today and I would like to say a few words in our defense.

In one article a young lady says, "the modern girl does not want to marry. She realizes that she is happy and carefree single. Why give up her life to be man's slave." If all girls think as this young lady does, what will happen to the future generation? She says a girl will do her part in the world's work. There is no nobler, grander work than that our mothers did; bringing children into this world.

In Columbus there is an Italian woman, possessing a wonderful voice. Great singers have advised her to go away and study and she would become famous. She said "No, I will not go and leave my husband and babies." She chose happiness instead of a career. Our American girls could take a lesson from this woman. If our schools would teach our girls more about house work there would be many a happier home.

Did you ever hear a crowd of girls talking? Usually the topic of their conversation is the boys. Girls of fifteen and sixteen brag of their "steadies" and their unchaperoned automobile rides. The girls are not alone to blame. Parents have their responsibility in this matter, too. A girl at that age needs the companionship of their mother more than the companionship of a "steady." Many mothers do not realize this. Show me a young girl who does this and I will show you a young girl's home without the proper environments.

A gentleman said. "I never notice what a woman wears. No gentleman will stare at a lady and then make remarks." If all men were like this gentleman, girls would soon discard their light-weight clothing for clothes more suitable for winter weather. Remember, girls dress for men. They do not care whether men remark about them or they would not be so conspicuous in their dress.

We stand on street corners bothering dozens of girls and not one has taken pity on us and we must go home alone. Yes, that's true. It is not because a girl does not want the fellows but because just a little farther up the street is some Dennison youth or a fellow with an automobile. What chance has a poor pedestrian (or rubbish) that stands on the street corner?

It is not always the men that bother the girls. Did you ever, during your working hours, or while on the street, see a girl "hanging around" a fellow? Is there anything more disgusting? A man should always take the initiative in a friendship. Yes, you are fickle and insincere and we can not truly respect a girl like that.

In Raleigh's time men considered it an honor to kiss a woman's hand. These days if you do not kiss her the first time you are with her, she considers you "slow."

Girls do not enforce other rules of convention, so why should we wait for an introduction? Men that stick to conventions are "slow" old fashioned and out of date.

You say what has become of Raleigh who laid his coat across the mud for Elizabeth to walk on? Girls, make us respect you and show us you are of Elizabeth's type and we will make Raleigh look like a piker.

Signed WINFIELD BARTON.

OPPOSES THE SINGLE TAX

Editor The Tribune & Times-Age:

On February 8, the farmers of Coshocton County met at the courthouse to discuss the question of reappraisement of real estate. On the following day, February 9, there appeared in your paper an editorial, the design of which was to set forth the Henry George theory of taxation as the only method that would give the needed relief.

Let me give you my interpretation of the single tax. It came forth a weak, pale child and it is still a frail child, little known and heard of only once in a while. You state that "a tax on the privilege of land owning is the only tax ever devised which stays where first imposed."

In fact, your theory put into practice would be something like this: If you are a teamster and your load becomes too burdensome for both Charley and Bill, just unhitch Charley and tie him to the fence, hitch Bill to the end of the tongue and see the mud fly. Don't take my word for it, just try it that's all. Again, just think for a moment of the absurdity of a long freight or passenger train being drawn by two engines, double-headers, when one single one could do the work much better. You even refer to the economists and scientists, many of them to prove this theory but the most learned men are finite mortals at best and liable to be mistaken.

The dead limb cannot contribute any life giving power to the green tree. The paralyzed arm cannot contribute any life giving properties to the human body. All those who receive benefits and protection from organized government not only should be willing, but should love to support his protector.

In speaking of poverty, Mr. Editor, let me say, if you will, just take time and pains to look around and you can find many you know who started at the bottom and have gone to the top, and many have started at the top and landed at the bottom and taxation had nothing at all to do with it, either.

You assert that the result of a faulty system of taxation is the ominous concentration of wealth. That was the Lenine and Trotzky hobby and look at Russia today! There is hardly a national doorstep in the family of nations today but they have been standing on knocking at the door of the concentration of wealth to develop their natural resources.

On principles of uniformity to each and all, the same principles are carried out in the architectural world. To illustrate: Mr. A has a farm of one hundred acres worth $4000.00. And annual tax of one and one-half per cent would amount to $60 annually. B along with fourteen others have $4000 each forming a stock company say for the newspaper business. Would that transaction come under the head of ominous concentration of wealth that you mention? Now, fifteen farmers have an investment of $60,000 in fifteen, one-hundred acre farms. They pay an annual tax on same of at the rate of one and one-half per cent amounting to $900. If your concentration of $60,000 is exempt those fifteen farmers will have to double up and pay yours, too, making a sum total of $1800.

Now, Mr. Editor, you make mention of several kinds of taxation. Aristocratic or Crooked Taxes, taxes that bear upon the privilege of holding land, then you mention straight taxation. We would like for you to define for the benefit of the fifteen farmers and the fifteen stock-holders of which you are one, just the particular class mentioned above the farmers and the stock-holders belong to. You also refer to the sink hole of economic rent. Let me ask if you please, what kind of offices are under the same roof, namely the home of the Tribune.

I will say in conclusion that government is just an organization and I know of no organization, fraternal or otherwise that exempts a part of its members from their annual dues, shifting the entire burden on others, unless it would be along the line of charity. So let me close, by reminding you of the fact that the uniform rule of taxation is the only just rule—it is nature's rule, the Golden Rule, and like the old time religion, it's good enough for me, and you.

ALLEN MARSHALL.

TAXATION AND THE FARMER

Editor of Tribune:

In your issue of Feb. 10th in an editorial the present balled up condition of the tax situation is attributed to the failure of the uniform tax law to work efficiently and then there is an effort made to make it appear that the single tax would remedy the situation. The argument might be convincing were it not for so many cold hard facts to the contrary.

To begin with there is no uniform tax law on the statute books that has ever been enforced or one which has ever been backed up with any adequate machinery for enforcement. The one in the constitution of the state has been ignored by our legislatures, tax officials and tax dodgers ever since its first adoption over 70 years ago and has been fought and evaded by the taxing machinery of the state on every occasion an attempt has been made to secure or provide for its enforcement.

The State has been practically under the control of a combination of classificationists and tax dodgers for over 70 years and it is not due to the uniform tax provision in the state constitution that every city, town, county and township of the state is pinched for want of revenue but to the disregard of the tax spending officials, for lack of business methods in the discharge of their duties, and to the indolent and timid attitude of those responsible for the enforcement of the laws providing public revenue.

If there were half the zeal in the efforts to enforce the uniform tax law as there is in spending the taxes there would be ample revenue provided business methods were employed in the matter of public expenditures.

All we need to do to verify these statements is to go to the county records of this (Coshocton) or any other county of the state and look over the auditor's books and see who have paid the bulk of the taxes over the state, see what classes of property have been concealed from tax officials and then go and see what the tax rates have been since 1850 down to the present.

Then go to the other records and see what rates of interest have been charged and collected during that time and when and how tax rates began to increase and interest rates to decline. Then you can see who sponged their public service by dodging their taxes.

It will be found that farm lands and farm personals have had to pay on an average nearer their actual values than any other classes of property and that notwithstanding very low rates of taxation for over half the time and usurious rates of interest and discounts, the properties of the classificationists have for the greater part of the time escaped to a great extent, when not altogether, any taxation. There are quite a number of men living in Coshocton county today who can verify these statements and know from personal experience their truth.

It never mattered whether tax rates were high or low, interest rates high or low, land valuation high or low, farm products high or low the farmer always had to pay his full share of taxes and a great part of the taxes of other classes of property.

As one of the speakers is reported to have remarked it would make no difference how much revenue was raised a reckless disregard of business methods would run thru with all of it.

During the past 5 years the taxpayers of the state and every county, city, town and township have been subjected to drive after drive for funds for this, that, and the other by methods not much more respectable than that of the hold-up artist. People were almost compelled to buy, subscribe and give whatever was demanded of them without liberty of consulting their means to give. That with increased cost of living, increase of official salaries and reckless public improvements at greatly increased cost have all together swelled private expenses to exceed all the income from increased prices for farm products.

There came deflation for the farmer for all his products with continued inflated expenses. Isn't he fully justified in revolting against the proposition to give the Oliver Twists in office more by revaluation of farm property? No doubt that at the last valuation there were some lands undervalued and there were, no doubt, farm lands overvalued and they would very likely about balance so a revaluation at this time would give some fellows a good fat job at public expense and there would be more money thru a general raise in values to satisfy those who itch to get their fingers into the public funds.

The valuation of 1810 was a great deal above the average selling price of land for the decade of 1870 to 80. So were the valuations of 1880 and 1890. The valuation of 1900 was the only one that can be said to be below the average selling price for the following 10 years.

The valuation of 1910 in conformity with the Smith one per cent law was probably as fair as any ever made and afforded a good opportunity for equal valuation as any and, very likely a great deal better conditions for it than the present. What assurance can be offered that a valuation at present would not result in greater dissatisfaction than the valuation we have now?

Why not make a greater effort to adjust public expenses to balance present revenue instead of increasing the tax burden to guess at additional expenses? D. S. SNIDER.

Naming of Natal.

The British colony of Natal is so named, because the territory was first discovered on Christmas day—the natal or birthday of our Savior—in the year 1497. The discoverer was Vasco de Gama, the Portuguese navigator, who had been dispatched by Manuel, king of Portugal, to discover a road to India, via the Cape of Good Hope. It was just after the finding of the New world had enriched Spain, and all the maritime nations were eagerly anxious to make similar discoveries.

Queer British City.

The most unique city in the three kingdoms is Clogher, situated in the south of Tyrone, Ireland, an episcopal city, consisting of a single street with houses only on the one side. There is a saying in the North—"All on one side, like Clogher." The other side of the street is occupied by the wall and overhanging trees of the Macartney's demesne, which gives the place a very picturesque appearance. Further, this street has a cathedral, and an episcopal palace without a resident bishop, and a deanery without a dean!

The Land of Blades.

Japan is called "the land of blades" by its own people, some of the older scholars having declared that the first sword was invented by the same god who invented poetry. A maker of swords in Japan was ever highly honored among his fellow mechanics. An unusually skillful and artistic smith sometimes was recipient of high military rank, a yearly pension, or was even raised to the lordship of the province in which he dwelt.

Success Requisites.

To be a real go-getter you must attempt and succeed in a great many things common folks dodge. To be able to see values where others see loss brings riches and power. Folks call it luck. It's merely the asset of the go-getter. The more you do the more you can do. Success oils the machinery and tempers the tools that develop power. It's marshaling resources and turning them to account that marks you an outstanding figure. —Exchange.

Tangled Tongues.

Spoonerisms, like the poor, we have always with us. One new and rather good one came to our attention recently. The other day a Chicago woman, testifying against her husband in her divorce suit, declared: "He leads me, his awful wife, a lawful life." There was a loud titter in the court and blushing with embarrassment she hastened to correct herself.—Boston Transcript.

Name Traced to Bullock.

Although there does not seem to be any connection between the two words, yet beef and Bosphorus are related. The strait was so named (according to one story) because a bullock (Latin bos, Greek bous) swam that body of water. Beef is derived through boeuf from bos, the accusative case of which is bovem or bouem.

Green Steals Light.

Greens are the greatest thieves of light. A dark green will absorb 85 per cent of the light, a dark brown perhaps 70 per cent, the light blue 25 per cent, while the soft, delicate tints will absorb only about 20 per cent. Pure white absorbs only 15 per cent of the light thrown upon it.

Philosophy of Business.

Over the door of their national bank, the Chinese have carved an adage which reads: "If you employ a man, trust him. If you cannot trust him, do not employ him." That is a good philosophy to apply to friendship as well as to business.—Delineator.

MARCH 8 IS SET ASIDE AS WOMEN'S WORLD LBOR DAY

MOSCOW, Feb. 18—The Russian women have sent out an mction to all the women of the world who work in home or factory or field to n in the celebration of March 8th, international Women's Labor Day. This holiday for women was first set as by the Socialist conference at Copenhagen in 1910. It was made memorable by the fact that on March 8th of the European calendar, February 23rd of the old Russian calendar, the hungarian wives and mothers and women factory workers of Petrograd left the kueues before the empty bread shops and lit the torch of the Russian Revolution. In Russia the holiday is taking its place as a great sister holiday to the first of May.

SOUTH DAKOTA HAS A GLOOMY OUTLOOK

PARKSTON, S Dak., Feb 18—No revival of prosperity for banker or farmer in South Dakota is evident here. Three banks were closed recently and 25 more have examiners in charge attempting to tide them over without closing them. One banker committed suicide leaving obligations of $1,000,000 to eastern banks. Many farmers will have to go into bankruptcy this year, including some who have farmed on a large scale. White some corn is being used for fuel, much is being sent for famine relief in Russia, this county alone having sent 40 carloads.

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

LARGER CITIES OF IOWA SHOW MORE EMPTY DWELLINGS

DES MOINES, Feb 18.—There are more vacant houses in the larger cities in Iowa than at any time in the past five years, according to E. H. Sands, State housing commissioner.

Sands asigns five reasons for the surplus of homes. They are.

1. High rents; causing:
2. Doubling up in occupied houses
3. Unemployment, making econemy necessary.
4. Increase in number of houses thru building.
5. New houses built for sale only.

It is pointed out by the housing commissioner that rents have not been greatly reduced in the downward trend of prices.

Sands declares doubling up increases fire danger several fold By the same process, unsanitary conditions are apt to prevail where lavatory facilities are not increased

The State housing commission is starting an investigation of doubling up, with a view of lessening evils that may arise.

Better Than the Reverse.

"Do you like housework, Bridget?" said the mistress to her new and elderly assistant. "Oi'll not lie to ye, mum," answered Biddy. "Oi do not; but av the two Oi prefer housework to the workhouse."—Boston Transcript.

PIMPLES ON FACE BURNED TERRIBLY

Also On Hands and Chest. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face, hands and chest itched and burned and hard, red pimples broke out. The pimples festered and when I scratched them they burned terribly. I could not put my hands in water, and could not do my regular work. My clothing irritated the breaking out, and my face was disfigured. I lost a lot of sleep.

"Seeing an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment I sent for a free sample which relieved the itching. I purchased more and in one month was healed." (Signed) Miss Cecelia Kapla, 705 Phebe St., Green Bay, Wis., July 30, 1921.

Beautify your skin by daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum.

SOCIALISTS GROW LIKE FUNGI WHEN BUSINESS MOLDS

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 18—Woodworth Clum, chief spokesman for the Better Federation, told the Ebell club of this city that. "The colleges are teaching Socialism. The teachers of our children are becoming infected by this pernicious doctrine." Up rose Proffessor K. C. Morgan, the other speaker of the afternoon. "Forget it," said he. "The Better American Federation is raising a tempest in a teapot. The avarice, greed and tyranny of employers in grinding down the workingman are making more Socialists than will ever be made by the Intercollegiate Society."

NAVY YARD WINS CHANCE TO ANGLE FOR REPAIR WORK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Thirty members of the legislative agents and executives' council at the American Federation of Labor organized a drive to secure the passage thru the senate of an amendment to the independent commissions appropiation bill, directing the Shipping Board to give the navy yards a chance to bid on all repair and reconditioning jobs in American waters where more than $5000 was involved More than 80 Senators were interviewed before the vote was taken and the result was that the amendment was adopted without a roll call.

WOULD ARREST MEN FOR REFUSING JOB AT ANY OLD WAGE

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 18 Mayor Leach's attitude on the unemployment situation, as reflected in his order to Chief Jensen to arrest any man found in the bread line who refuses a job, was attacked in a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Minneapolis Unemployed Council The only jobs offered, speakers declared were jobs that paid from $12 to $15 per month, not sufficient even to pay house rent for those who had dependents.

MILWAUKEE KEEPS BOOKS IN MISERY

MILWAUKEE, Feb 18– Milwaukee has 1,500 children under 17 who have left school and are without work.

But 178 children of 803 applying were given jobs, according to the report

At the same time R. L. Cooley, director, Milwaukee continuation school, gave out figures showing 4,611 boys working under permit at an average wage of $11.14 per week and 2,966 girls employed at an average pay of $10.95 per week

College girls are hunting jobs in Milwaukee and taking anything they can get, according to a statement by Mrs Elsie E Easman, superintendent, women's division federal employment office

Hard times, as a result of the unemployment situation, are given as the reasons for drastic curtailment of the daily nutrition service in the parochial schools, by Dr. E V. Brumbaugh, deputy health commissioner Poor families, he said, are unable to pay the required charge of 12 cents a week per child for the service

He pointed out that last year the daily nutrition service, which includes a half pint of milk, a graham cracker and a straw through which to consume the milk, was provided in 12 parochial schools. Only three schools installed the service this year because of the small number of children whose parents could afford the weekly charge

Approximately 5,000 under-nourished children are attending the clinics under the supervision of the health department.

TOO MANY PROFITS BETWEEN FARMER AND TABLE OF CONSUMER

WASHINGTON, Feb 18– Railroads and middlemen are making big profits in handling wheat before it reaches consumers as bread, according to statistics submitted today to the senate agriculture committee.

The committee holding hearings on the Ladd bill to provide federal stabilization of farm products was told that the profits of middlemen last year were from 50 to 90 cents a bushel on wheat, the money going to elevator owners, wheat brokers, railroads, millers and bankers

6TH ST. THEATRE

Starting Monday, Cecil B. DeMille's latest picture, "SATURDAY NIGHT" will be shown for three days at the Sixth Street Theatre. The picture deals with the story of four people of opposite positions in life. Two of the aristocratic and idle rich of New York society set and the other two, the poor and happy go lucky of the Bowery, New York's East Side. The young heiress marries her chauffeur and the millionaire's son marries his laundress However, in the end the situations are reversed in a very diplomatic way and furnishes a very interesting story

It is Mr. DeMille's best picture and that is certainly saying a lot as you will remember the gorgeousness with which he produced such pictures as "For-Bidden Fruit," "Something to Think About," "Why Change Your Wife," "Male and Female" and his last success which created a sensation throughout the country, "The Affairs of Anatol." Saturday Night surpasses all of his previous efforts in settings, gowns and continuity of the story. The cast includes such notables as Conrad Nagel, Edith Roberts, Leatrice Joy and Jack Mower.

BORAH COMES OUT FLAT FOR AMNESTY

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb 18 – Senator William E. Borah in a letter to William Madison Hicks, who is in Leavenworth penitentiary for alleged anti-draft speeches in Oklahoma, favors a general amnesty.

Borah wrote:

I think whatever we do must look toward general amnesty. I doubt very much if anything worth while will be accomplished by dealing with individual cases. It seems to me, however, that the pardon of Debs justifies a contention that all political prisoners should be pardoned. If Debs was not guilty, then no one was guilty of that kind of an offense.

Practically all of the 93 Industrial Workers of the World serving sentence here are agreed that they must stand together in the battle for release, and not seek individual clemency. Commenting on Borah's letter, Forrest Edwards, one of the Chicago I. W. W. who is in for 20 years has written to the General Defense Committee at Chicago:

The majority of the bunch here expressed their opposition to individual clemency in a resolution last summer. They are still of the same opinion.

LEGION OFFICER IS GONE WITH $1,000

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—Robert L. Black, commander of Robert E. Bentley post, American Legion, is preparing to swear out a warrant for the arrest of an executive officer of the post who is alleged to have disappeared with $1,000 of the post's funds. He is alleged to have raised checks from $50 to $500 and from $20 to $120.

Monday a telegram was received from him in Baltimore, saying he had been called away and that he would return Tuesday or Wednesday.

WOMEN! DRY CLEAN THINGS AT HOME

Try it! For a few cents you can dry clean everything.

Save five to ten dollars quickly by dry cleaning everything in the home with gasoline that would be ruined by soap and water—suits, coats, waists, silks, laces, gloves, shoes, furs, draperies, rugs—everything!

Place a gallon or more of gasoline in a dishpan or washboiler, then put in the things to be dry cleaned, then wash them with Solvite soap. Shortly everything comes out looking like new. Nothing fades, shrinks, or wrinkles. Do not attempt to dry clean without Solvite soap. This gasoline soap is the secret of all dry cleaning.

A package of Solvite soap containing directions for home dry cleaning, costs little at any drug store Dry clean outdoors or away from flame.
